Dockyard Men Told to Work Or Lose Jobs

Ottawa Terms Cruiser Refit Project of National Import

Boilermakers employed by H.M.C. Dockyard and on H.M.C.S. Quebec at the Canadian Government dry dock who went on "provisional leave" rather than cross picket lines established by other striking boilermakers, will have to report for work at 8 a.m. Tuesday or lose their jobs.

A letter signed by Cmdr. H. G. Burchell, assistant supervisor of H.M.C. Dockyard, has been forwarded to all the boilermakers concerned. It reads:

"The Department of National Defense has directed that all work in preparing H.M.C.S. Quebec for her new important role in the naval service shall be treated as work of national importance.

"The department also has stated that government-employed boilermakers have no justification for stopping work in H.M.C.S. Quebec and are to be instructed to return to work or be dismissed.

IMMEDIATE DISMISSAL

"This letter is to be interpreted as instructions to return to work in H.M.C.S. Quebec as of 0800 hours on Tuesday, October 2, 1951. Failure to report on the date noted above should be interpreted by you as termination of employment in H.M.C. Dockyard, Esquimalt, effective at above hour and date.

"There is no intention at this time on the part of H.M.C. Dockyard authorities to require H.M.C. Dockyard-employed boiler-makers and welders to undertake work in H.M.C.S. Quebec which normally would have been carried out by striking boilermakers employed by either Yarrows Ltd., or Victoria Machinery Depot.

"This requirement to return to work is for the sole purpose of proceeding with the large amount of work in H.M.C.S. Quebec which was always, and still is, the responsibility of H.M.C. Dockyard."

Forest Closure Off Tonight

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney said yesterday the forest closure would be lifted from the Vancouver forest district at midnight tonight.

Loggers will be able to resume activities in the forests tomorrow morning, but hunters and fishermen must stay out of the woods for the remainder of the week-end.

Meanwhile, officials of the Forest Service have disclosed that a total of 1,902 forest fires have occurred to date this year in B.C. forests, at an estimated cost of $1,287,835 to the province.

In 1950 to this date, 1,487 fires cost the province $132,579.

Costly Jewels Reported Lost

SYOSSET, N.Y., Sept. 29 (AP). The disappearance of $100,000 in jewels from the summer home of Mrs. Ailsa Bruce, former wife of the American ambassador to France, was reported here tonight by police.

Hope for End of Strike Seen in New Meetings

The boilermakers' strike at two Victoria shipyards may end this week after a week-end of talks and a company-union meeting Tuesday.

The union strike committee will meet this morning.

Tomorrow, the boilermaker employees of H.M.C. Dockyard will meet at 2 p.m. in the Boilermakers' Hall to discuss the H.M.C. Dockyard order that government employees return to work Tuesday morning.

It is expected that the 400 strikers will discuss policy on the possible return to work of Dockyard men.

The Dockyard employees honored the boilermakers' picket line and have been unemployed since the four-day-old strike began.

MEETING SET

The labor relations board has arranged a meeting of company and union representatives at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

James Downie, western representative of the Boilermakers' International Union, will attend the meeting in an effort to help arrive at a suitable settlement. He was authorized to attend the talks by the strike comittee and union executive, the boilermakers announced.

The union is seeking a 50-cent hourly wage boost over the present basic wage of $1.60 an hour. They have rejected a 25-cent-an-hour conciliation board recommendation.

No School Set As Town Downs Needed By-Law

SALMON ARM, B.C., Sept. 29 (CP).—In a situation unparalleled in British Columbia history, ratepayers here voted 430 to 241 today against a by-law which would provide enough money to keep municipal schools open.

As a result, there will be no classes for some 400 students when the municipal elementary and high schools close Tuesday.

The by-law would have authorized a tax levy of 11 mills to supply the $16,000 needed to keep the schools open.

Several months ago, the Salmon Arm school board said its funds were exhausted and that it needed $80,000 or rural municipal and city schools would have to close by Sept. 30.

The provincial government offered to provide money to keep 500 rural students at school but the city council said it did not have the funds and asked ratepayers to approve a special levy of 11 mills.

Scottish Wartime Commanders

Seven men who have served in wartime as commanding officers of the Canadian Scottish Regiment meet under oil painting of Princess Mary, honorary colonel of the regiment, during the reunion banquet of the 16th Battalion, C.E.F., and the Canadian Scottish Regiment. Seated are Col. R. J. Kingham and Lieut.-Col. R. G. L. Parker. Standing, from left, are: Lieut.-Col. L. S. Henderson, Lieut.-Col. D. G. Crofton, Brig. F. N. Cabeldu, Lieut.-Col. C. M. Wightman and Lieut-Col. R. M. Lendrum. (See also story, pictures on page 17.)—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Power Struggle Plainer Than Issues of Election

By LAWRIE JOSLIN

In the tide of words which has rolled from election platforms since the start of the Esquimalt by-election campaign, it is hard to see the real and vital issues.

It is easier to see the struggle for power at work in both wings of the Coalition.

The fight between Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb and W.A.C. Bennett did not end last year when Mr. Anscomb beat out Mr. Bennett for the Conservative party leadership.

It went on at the last session of the House when Mr. Bennett crossed the floor and Mrs. Tilly Ralston, who supported his struggle for party leadership, followed him.

It goes on today with the same pair flailing the government from the Esquimalt hustings on behalf of Cmdr. A. C. Wurtele, also a Conservative turned Independent.

Dislike of some federal P.C.'s for provincial party leadership has showed itself, with Howard Green, member of the House of Commons for Vancouver, deploring censure of Whitworth Stanbury by the Victoria and District Federal Progressive Conservative Association. Members of the association did not like the sight of their former president acting as campaign manager for Cmdr. Wurtele. Mr. Green apparently liked the picture.

On the Liberal side of Coalition the boat is also being rocked. Two young Liberals have been openly critical of the way things are being run. One quit the party.

Esquimalt's 12,017 voters will be able to cast their ballots at 29 polling stations throughout the constituency between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. tomorrow. Esquimalt township polls will be at the Boy Scout Hall, 1123 Colville Street, and at the Esquimalt Athletic Hall on Fraser Street. The rest of the polling stations will be in district community halls.

From behind the scenes has come the sharp voice of Harry Perry, president of the B.C. Liberal Association and a former cabinet minister and Speaker of the House. Since 1949, when Premier Byron Johnson ousted Arthur Laing from the party presidency in a power struggle and he was replaced by Mr. Perry there has been friction.

During the last session of the House, Mr. Perry openly attacked the premier and the government, using the issue of hospital insurance as a basis. Lately there have been suggestions that the Liberal convention, slated for next month, was called off by the premier and his supporters. This action is reported to have angered Mr. Perry.

Now the Liberal president has rapped the premier for not asking for Mr. Anscomb's resignation when he said Conservatives would walk alone at the next general election.

MADE EARLIER

Actually, Liberal and Conservative big-wigs have made this same statement on previous occasions and no great cause was felt for alarm.

This sort of bickering on both sides of the Coalition is bound to continue and cloud other issues

Mossadegh Will Fight Demand for Intervention

TEHRAN, Sept. 29 (AP). — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh decided today to wage a personal fight before the Security Council against Britain's demand for U.N. intervention in the British-Iranian oil dispute.

The news that British delegate Sir Gladwyn Jebb will ask the council Monday to overrule Mossadegh's order for ousting the last British technicians from the Abadan refinery visibly surprised and worried advisers of the ailing old Nationalist leader.

The government announced Mossadegh's decision to fly to New York.

His regular delegate to the U.N. is Nasrollah Entezam, a suave professional diplomat who is president of the General Assembly and Iranian ambassador to Washington.

The British appeal, disclosed in London early today, is likely to postpone the final showdown on a row that started with nationalization of Iranian properties of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company six months ago.

Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi told reporters there will be no change in the order for the 300-odd Britons remaining at troop-guarded Abadan to clear out by Thursday, regardless of the hearing.

Believe King Still Gaining

LONDON, Sept. 29 (CP).—No medical bulletin on the King's progress was released tonight and it was presumed he was still gaining.

This morning's bulletin said: "King George VI has been gaining strength daily. The period since his operation has been free of complications."

Logger Dies After Mishap

NANAIMO, Sept. 27.—Adolph Plachner, 27, of Victoria, died early today in Nanaimo Hospital as the result of a logging accident Friday afternoon.

He was critically injured after being hit by a falling snag at the Nanaimo River camp of the Victoria Lumber Co.

Plachner is survived by a brother Angus, of Victoria, and his parents in Boyle, Alta.

An inquest is expected.

Allied Units Press New Killer Drive

U.N. Commander Declines To Call Offensive Limited

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 30 (Sunday) (AP)—Tank-supported Allied troops pressed an autumn offensive in Korea Saturday of a killer type which has knocked out 18 Red divisions since May 25.

The United Nations field commander placed the Red toll during the Allies' summer offensive at more than 180,000 killed or wounded and said that drive was limited.

But Gen. James A. Van Fleet declined to put the "limited" label on the current offensive.

An official written statement by Gen. Van Fleet called the period from May 25 to Sept. 25 the army's "summer offensive." It also said the Allied "autumn offensive" began Sept. 25.

"Whether this new effort will be limited or otherwise I am not at liberty to say," Van Fleet added.

Allied tanks and troops, backed by artillery, assaulted peaks in central and eastern Korea Saturday against bitterly resisting Reds.

The attackers swept up rain-drenched heights west of Chorwon in central Korea and won them in a 15-hour battle, a field dispatch said.

Early today, at 1 a.m., 3.50 and 4.50, the rain-soaked Allies hurled back three vicious Red counter-attacks.

The hard-won heights overlook a corridor from Chorwon to Pyonggang, the apex of the triangle 29 miles north of the 38th parallel.

Deny Reports Of Submarines

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 29 (AP)—Military authorities tonight discounted reports by two civilians they believed they had seen two alien submarines near Alaska.

The reports were made by Donald Cross and Tom Costello, Fish and Wildlife Service employees, who said they had seen the subs Aug. 28 and Sept. 12, respectively.

Bradley Remains Hopeful

TOKYO, Sept. 30 (Sunday) (AP).—Gen. Omar N. Bradley today expressed hope the cease-fire talks still could be resumed, but he virtually ruled out controversial Kaesong as the site.

"We think resumption of these negotiations should be at a place where each side will have equal rights," the chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff told a press conference.

He said that did not include Kaesong at present.

Bradley added, however, that present Communist silence on Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's suggestion that the talks be resumed in a no-man's-land six miles southeast of Kaesong did not dash all hopes for the talks.

DEPENDS ON REPLY

"It will depend on the nature of their answer," he said.

The top U.S. military officer, who arrived in Tokyo Friday night, thus indicated Allied hope that the suspended cease-fire talks are not yet near an end.

The talks have been suspended by the Reds since Aug. 23.

On Saturday, Peiping radio, silent on Gen. Ridgway's new site proposal, stressed a prediction the Allies were planning amphibious landings on both coasts of Korea. The broadcast blamed the Allies for "wrecking" the talks on the armistice.

Police Seek Hit-Run Car; Seizure Fatal to Printer

A hit-and-run driver who severely injured an elderly Chinese at Douglas and Fisgard is being sought by Greater Victoria police departments.

Saanich police reported one man was accidentally wounded by a blast from a shotgun in the hands of his son and that another man died of a heart attack.

Wong Low Mon, 756 Johnson Street, suffered two broken legs and a possible fractured skull, police reported. He was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital by police ambulance at about 10.30 p.m.

All Greater Victoria police departments were alerted to watch for a damaged car.

CAR DESCRIBED

The car is described as a 1949 maroon Ford. Police are attempting to trace several license numbers.

Seth Wilson, 61, Old West Road, sustained shotgun wounds in a leg and foot when a gun in the hands of his son, Woodrow, 27, accidentally fired at the family home yesterday afternoon.

He is in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital after an operation by Dr. T. W. A. Gray.

William Spencer, 52, of Langford, died of a heart attack while attending a dance at Lake Hill Community Hall shortly before midnight. He was dead on arrival of the Saanich fire department inhalator crew and Dr. E. L. McNiven. The body was taken to Chaplin's Funeral Home.

Crash Victim Still Serious

Mrs. Gladys Frew, 520 Walter Street, is still in serious condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital after suffering head and internal injuries and a leg fracture in a traffic accident early yesterday.

Mrs. Frew was a passenger, with her husband, John, and Sydney Pegg, 46 Simms Avenue, in a car which struck a pole on Gorge Road West.

Condition of Mr. Frew is good. He sustained head injuries. Mr. Pegg was treated and released.

Huge Aerial Flare To Open Campaign

The first light turned on for the opening of the giant Community Chest drive for $240,000 on Monday night will be the brightest Victoria has seen.

Weather permitting, a large, brilliant flare will be dropped from an R.C.A.F. plane at 7 p.m. to signal the turning on of thousands of porch lights all over Greater Victoria.

To avoid setting a fire when the hot flare lands, it must be dropped over the water.

Community Chest officials expect 2,000 canvassers to attend a rally at the Memorial Arena at 4.15 Monday. Business district canvassers will "go dutch" to a breakfast at Lougheed's Banquet Hall, 1406 Douglas, at 8 a.m.

NEED WORKERS

There is still a shortage of canvassers, officials report. Work can be found for volunteers right up to the opening moment of the drive.

H. B. Binny, campaign secretary, advises canvassers who have not been in touch with team captains by Monday morning to call chest headquarters at G 0581.

At 6.50 p.m. Monday, CJVI will begin a special broadcast which will be taken over at 7 p.m. by station manager R. T. Batey in a T.C.A. plane over the city. Station CKDA will broadcast the whistles, sirens and bells that will sound the beginning of the drive.

High point in this year's drive will be the announcement of whether Victoria has collected more money on a percentage basis than New Westminster in the intercity challenge race.

BETTER TO WIN

The mayor of the winning city will receive a kiss from lovely Inez McLeod, Victoria's Miss Community Chest, and the loser will sweep the ice at the first hockey match between Victoria and New Westminster.

A city-to-city pigeon race with the loser paying $100 to the winner's Community Chest did not meet with enthusiasm from the Royal City and the bet was called off.

Nerve centre for the drive will be the B.C. Electric building opposite City Hall, from where the "race" results between the two cities will be broadcast.

Peron Tightens Grip on Nation

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 29 (AP) President Peron tightened his grip on the nation today, six weeks in advance of the presidential election, as a result of the ill-starred military revolt announced by the government Friday.

The presidential press office disclosed without explanation the resignation of the 53-year-old navy minister, Adm. Enrique B. Garcia, and his replacement by a navy captain, Anibal O. Olivieri, the former undersecretary.

It was not known whether the minister quit under pressure or as a gesture of self-blame because some naval air officers were reported to have joined in the revolt—a revolt which the newspaper El Laborista said resulted in one killed and seven wounded.

The Socialist and Radical parties, chief political opposition, reported several of their prominent members were under arrest.

Stall Receives Tons of Food

Literally tons of donated food jammed Mrs. Barbara Green's free food stall in the Market Building yesterday to register the busiest day she has had since opening several weeks ago.

She said 83 people were given donated food yesterday.

"I had a terrific response from the wholesalers and private individuals who gave me surplus food," she said.

National magazines were badly nipped by the Royal visit postponement.

At least two of them came out with articles in their October number stating that the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Elizabeth were already on their way to Canada.

The reason is that magazines are forced to make up their pages several months in advance. This seemed like a safe bet.

Consider, on the other hand, the case of Life magazine, which brazenly came out after the closing of the U.S. presidential polls with a picture spread of Thomas Dewey, the "new president."

Farmers Need Better Public Relations

NANAIMO, Sept. 29. — L. W. Johnson, superintendent of the Farmers' Institute and C. S. Walls, secretary-manager of B.C. Federation of Agriculture brought important messages to District "A", Farmers Institute one-day conference here Friday.

The rising cost-of-living index has been unjustly laid at the door of the farmers they said, when in reality he is producing at a loss.

They urged the farmer to make use of the strong machinery in his hands to fight for his labor and investment and to so improve his public relations that the consumer will know what he is up against.

W. H. Dunn, retiring president told the farmers they face their most difficult year and if they are to obtain cost of production and a fair profit they must increase their fighting strength and show more interest in all farm organizations.

LABOR BLAMED

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the Hon. C. D. Howe and city daily newspapers were blamed by Mr. Walls for misleading statements on the cost-of-living index blamed on producers. Union speakers attacked the producer for a January [illegible] said, by vegetable costs. Mr. Howe had blamed butter alone for an increase, and newspapers, accepting Dominion statistics, had placed an 8.4 increase in one year against the cost of food.

The statistics, said Mr. Walls, are not wrong, but they are half-truths and make the farmer the "whipping boy" on the subject of inflation.

When labor demanded controls, it asked that farm prices be controlled but wants no controls on wages, he said.

DISTRIBUTION COSTS

He blamed distribution costs for the major rises in the living index.

Attacking the Howe statement that vegetables were the major factor in an index rise, Mr. Walls said only two types of vegetables are grown in Canada in January and February.

The rest are imported.

As to butter, the increased cost was but temporary due to a shortage yet at the same time price of margarine went up and stayed up, he said.

Mr. Johnson said institute members should dispel any idea that the federation was trying to push them out of the picture; the two work toward the same goal in different ways.

While the farmer is essentially an individualist the time has come for him to organize more than ever and he must vastly improve his public relations, he said.

Will Serve Two Reserves

Opening of Indian School To Be Held Tomorrow

SIDNEY, Sept. 29 — The new consolidated Indian school on West Saanich Road will be formally opened at 1.30 p.m. tomorrow by Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P.

Construction of the school started last spring and it was opened in September. It will serve all Indian pupils on the Saanich peninsula and replaces schools on the East and West Saanich reserves.

The modern, three-room structure is the first of its kind to be erected in the area for use by Indian children.

WAS DIVIDED

The former West Saanich school was divided between two buildings — a one-room school built by the Department of Indian Affairs about 1930 and the former combined Catholic church and rectory which was built about 1875. The school on the East Saanich reserve is the Catholic church which was constructed at the turn of the century.

Principal of the new school is Rev. Sister M. Socorro.

Assisting at the opening of the new building will be a representative of the Department of Indian Affairs, educationalists and prominent residents of the Saanich area.

FAMOUS SPORT

Although foxes had existed in England from earliest times, the sport of fox-hunting did not become popular until the 17th Century.

IN SEARCH OF UTOPIA

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters).—Taxes, living costs and noisy street cars among other things, are proving too much for John Greenston, 57. The stained-glass artisan is recruiting men and women to aid in establishing a co-operative settlement, probably in New Guinea of the Torres Islands, north of Queensland.

Cyanide Guns Used to Kill Prairie Pests

EDMONTON, Sept. 29 (CP).—Alberta's coyotes are in for a rough winter. Scattered tests of new cyanide "coyote getter" guns claimed the lives of 60 of the "pesky varmints."

William A. Lobay, provincial crop pest control chief said that Peter Chubb, an area control officer in the municipal district of Ponoka, 60 miles south of Edmonton, produced the best score in the early tests.

Mr. Chubb set out 30 "coyote getters"—and scored 23 dead coyotes.

"The beauty of the coyote getters is that they kill the coyotes in the farming area where predatory animals do the damage to flocks and herds," said Mr. Lobay. "Formerly, most of our coyotes were killed in unsettled areas where they were doing comparatively little harm."

The Alberta minister of agriculture has received applications from 19 municipal districts that wish to organize under the anti-coyote campaign.

Manpower, Materials Pinch U.K. Arms Plan

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP).—The drawing board part of Britain's three-year rearmament program is practically finished.

Orders for about 60 per cent of the arms have been placed; factories are expanding; some sub-contracts are being farmed out, and production lines are beginning to move.

But all is far from well.

Output is lagging behind schedule on almost every item, from airplanes and warships down to tents. Men, machine tools and metals are scarce.

The country is so pinched for scientists and technicians that almost all of them have to be used on current projects to the sacrifice of future improvements even before military production hits its peak.

RESOURCES STRAINED

The burden of defense already is straining the country's resources. It is an open question — laden with political dynamite — how well the country can bear up under the stresses of an arms program saddled on an already wobbly economy.

The Labor Government says the country can and must do the job at whatever cost.

A potent left wing in the Labor Party, led by Aneurin Bevan, insists the job cannot be done without defeating its own purpose; that it will wreck the welfare state and bring on an economic crisis that will leave the country helpless.

The Conservatives long have argued that Britain was doing too little too late.

New jet fighters and bombers have been ordered straight from drawing board, without preliminary flight testing for bugs. So far all appears to be well, although types ordered in this way still are not in service.

TOP QUALITY

New jet planes appear to be excellent. Britain is proud of its new Centurion tank, battle-tested in Korea. The navy is building some new ships and refitting others with concentration on fast, streamlined submarine killers and aircraft carriers.

Nearly 35,000 machine tools are needed, the supply ministry says. About two-thirds of them are on order with British makers, American firms and European companies. The rest are expected to be obtained by diverting machines already ordered by non-defense plants.

Shortage of men is grave. It takes time to train them and no quick solution is possible.

Exercise for Mathematical Father

Their father is a former mathematics teacher who was able to figure it out, so these boys are told they are rare specimens—they happen once in 1,358,954,496 births. The boys, six in number and all twins, are the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Gulley of San Antonio, Texas.—(Central Press Canadian.)

Population Shifts West, South

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP).—Go West, young man, said Horace Greeley in 1851, and people are still taking his advice.

For the United States' centre of population, based on the 1950 [illegible] ward jump, the census bureau announced today.

What's more, the latest leap is the longest in 60 years.

The new population centre, in a cornfield eight miles northwest of Olney, Ill., is 42 miles west and 7½ miles south of the 1940 centre near Carlisle, Ind.

Census bureau officials said the move reflects the westward and southward migrations that took place during the war when new industries sprang up in those sections.

The population of the Pacific coast jumped 5,000,000 between 1940 and 1950. Florida and Texas each gained 1,000,000.

Census director Roy Peel said a two-day ceremony will be held in connection with the transfer of the centre from Indiana to Illinois. Television and radio hookups will carry the events.

The population centre is the point upon which the United States would balance if all its 150,697,361 people were of equal weight.

Mantis Aids in Pest Battle

Insects have been described as men's chief competitors for eventual survival on this planet and warfare against them is waged continuously and relentlessly. Damage to field crops and forests by destructive insects runs into millions of dollars every year in Canada alone.

But every once in a while there is good news even from the insect world. This year in particular, and for several years past, it has been noted that an insect, once common in more southern regions only, is steadily increasing its northward range and now in- [illegible] The praying mantis has joined forces with Canadians in the campaign against insect pests.

This queer fellow and his mate —especially the mate— for the female mantis is infinitely more deadly than the male, mean sudden death for all potato bugs, Japanese beetles, rose bugs and pesky flies that are encountered: Light green in color, with a head that is almost all eyes, and with the ability to turn its head and peek over its shoulders, the mantis has long sickle-shaped arms. These are held upward and outward in an attitude of prayer which gives the mantis its popular name.

"Preying" mantis would be more appropriate, for the insect is the most bloodthirsty of its race and uses those deadly arms to crush any insect, not excepting the male mantis after mating, that comes within reach. Eating the crushed prey is done with incredable speed. But a large percentage of the mantis diet is insects, and the economical value of the insect is enormous.

Greeks, Turks Offer Tough Aid in Pact

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Greece and Turkey will add about 28 divisions of tough and well-trained fighters to the anti-Communist camp once they become full partners in the North Atlantic Treaty organization. Divisions of most armies run at least 10,000 men.

The two countries have had United States military help for four years, but were left out when the N.A.T.O. was formed in April, 1949, by the United States, Canada, Britain and nine west European countries. At the time some Europeans feared that to swing the alliance all the way around the Mediterranean would spread the free world's strength too thin.

This month the N.A.T.O. Council, meeting at Ottawa, voted to take in Greece and Turkey. The governments of the 12 pact members still must approve.

U.S. ambassadors to both Greece and Turkey say that those two countries will fight alone against the Communists if they have to.

The Turkish soldier, Maj.-Gen. William H. Arnold, chief of the U.S. military commission, reported, is paid the equivalent of 21 cents a month. He gets one summer uniform, one winter outfit, no extras. He eats a simple ration of 2.2 pounds of bread a day and stew three times a day. He sleeps on a board.

Arnold summarized: "Despite all this, the Turk has one of the highest morales of any of the armed forces I have ever seen. I think he is a great person to have on our team."

Hoopla Days Gone

Red Hunting on Capitol Hill Now Dignified, Formal Affair

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP).—Red-hunting on Capitol Hill has become as formal and dignified as an English fox hunt. Gone are the hoopla days of the Dies Committee, when movie stars and other celebrities were at a premium as witnesses.

The new mode is the creation of Senator Pat McCarran (Dem., Nev.), who is determined to make his internal security sub-committee as prim and proper as possible. The committee, nevertheless, is building up steam in its ponderous way and may presently produce some sensational results.

No one will be able to accuse the McCarran committee of irresponsible scandal-mongering if it sticks to the rules McCarran has laid down.

McCarran has decreed that anyone whose reputation seems threatened by being named in public hearings shall be permitted to testify in rebuttal. No witness is allowed to inject names not pertinent to the inquiry.

Public hearings are held only after prolonged investigation. No television or radio is permitted in the hearing room.

The committee issues no statements before or during the investigation.

Oddities

AVEZZANO, Italy, Sept. 29 (AP).—Mrs. Enrichetta de Angelis plans to use a just-delivered layette—mailed in 1906—to dress her first great-grandchild.

The layette, mailed in Boston 45 years ago, arrived two days ago. It was sent by Mrs. de Angelis' husband, who had emigrated to the United States, for their first-born.

It will now be used for that first-born's grandchild.

VAN NUYS, Calif., Sept. 29 (AP).—Bandleader Skippy Retherford doggereled the judge out of a traffic fine.

With 34 lines of haphazard verse, Retherford explained yesterday that he went through a red light to avoid an accident. He wound up:

A pat on the back should have been mine
But I guess I'll have to pay a fine.
No accident this time happened to me
So let me know how much is the fee.

Judge Allan T. Lynch, no critic of poetry, dazedly suspended sentence.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29 (INS).—The bride and groom at a Chicago "wedding" beat their chests today and grinned like gorillas.

Which was natural. They were.

The uncivil ceremony united Baby, a two-year-old, 37-pound specimen from French Equatorial Africa, and Sapho, three, a bride who outweighs her mate by eight pounds.

The ceremony consisted of placing Baby and Sapho in adjoining cages at Brookfield Zoo—and opening the connecting door.

Old Gold Mine Yields Tungsten

EDMONTON, Sept. 29 (CP).—An official of the Tungsten Corp. of Canada said today an abandoned gold mine on Outpost Island, 40 miles southwest of Yellowknife, N.W.T., now is producing Tungsten, a metal used in hardening steel.

Production figures are not available. About 50 men are employed.

Two Canadians in Crew For Royal Ocean Flight

BRISTOL, England, Sept. 29 (Reuters).—Two Canadians are among the crew of 11 who will fly Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada Oct. 7.

The Royal couple are traveling from London airport in a four-engined B.O.A.C. Stratocruiser commanded by Capt. O. P. Jones.

Geoffrey Slocombe, 31, of Vancouver, will be first officer aboard the plane, with Edward L. Hagger, 37, English-born Canadian citizen, as radio officer.

"I am naturally very honored to be on this trip," Slocombe said at his home here today. "Like most Canadians, I am delighted the Princess and her husband are going and feel sure the tour will be a tremendous success."

Slocombe, married with two children, has been on the North Atlantic run since December, 1947. He came to Britain with the R.C.A.F. in 1941, and after six years' service, joined B.O.A.C.

"I have flown with Captain Jones several times," he said. "He is a strict disciplinarian but a grand fellow."

Hagger, born in England but now a naturalized Canadian, has been a radio officer with B.O.A.C. since 1936.

"I have been shuttling to and from across the Atlantic ever since," he said. "But during one of my long stays in Canada I married a Montreal girl and decided to become a Canadian citizen."

Hagger now lives at Bristol with his wife and six-year-old daughter.

"I'm delighted to be on this trip," he said. "Particularly as Geoffrey Slocombe is going along with me. We are old chums in the service."

Responsibility Begins at Home

EVER since Victoria was a tiny collection of wooden homes straggling outside its first stockade, where Fort Street now slants to the harbor, this community has maintained a reputation for considerate, friendly living. The sound Canadian viewpoint that individuals can be down on their luck today but will be up again and ready to help others tomorrow, so long as hope remains to them, is still a valid one. While pioneer times have passed and rule-of-thumb methods have been superseded, the call of the unfortunate is still the rallying point in any society of free individuals. It is precisely that concern which brings the Community Chest into every home, as part of the direct obligation of good citizenship.

What each subscribing individual should ask of himself, or herself, tomorrow when porch lights go on as the cheerful beacons of willing givers, is how would each like to trade places with the friendless and forlorn, the aged and the sick, in this or any other land? Canada, fortunately, has escaped the grinding poverty which stalks so much of a war-scarred world. One reason for that is that we truly believe in the worth of the individual, and that each person given the right start can have a bright and self-energizing future. That is why urban social agencies exist, to do in a connected and co-ordinated way what the early pioneers did in neighborliness over their back fences. There are 16 agencies in Victoria's Community Chest, and this year their need is for a total of $240,000.

Tomorrow, then, at 7 p.m. standard time, thousands of Community Chest representatives will be making the rounds of Greater Victoria homes. Inside of two hours this community will have given its answer. Make it a good one! Put into it a true and kindly wish for others, gratitude for favors not all individuals enjoy, that hope for yourself and for others which all men need to survive, and something over and above for the good name of this century-old community. If each one able to do so participates in the effort the drain will not be heavy on any individual. The result must serve the co-ordinated welfare agencies of the community for twelve months; each dollar budgeted, each result reported and accounted for. Into the envelopes along with your contribution inevitably will go your estimation of the value of a free society and the responsibilities of a good citizen.

Esquimalt Is Curtain-Raiser

ESQUIMALT electors will render their own verdict tomorrow, without words. The by-election held one year late to fill Esquimalt's vacant seat in the legislature has turned into a major test of the Coalition government's popularity or otherwise with the people. Three-quarters of the Cabinet has been thrown into the contest in support of the Coalition nominee, and government spokesmen from the Premier down have made this small, routine by-election a front-stage play for a vote of confidence by the electors. Two revolts, one each in Liberal and Progressive Conservative ranks, had to be crushed in the process in private conflicts that are not settled yet.

On top of this, and enough to confuse the electors of any riding, has been superimposed Mr. W. A. C. Bennett's incipient manoeuvre for a Third Party; the traditional C.C.F. opposition; and a plethora of Independents, of the singing variety and otherwise. Long ago it seems Esquimalt's wants in the provincial field have been forgotten, as the main battle waged over Coalition pledges and their contested fulfilment. How the voters of Esquimalt riding will view all these performances, vocal and otherwise, on the rostrum remains to be seen. The very human reaction may be a vote for the individual regardless of his party, non-party or express affiliations. But since the Cabinet has made it a confidence issue, the Esquimalt by-election has now the full status of a curtain-raiser to the general election of 1953.

Irrespective of the result at the polls tomorrow, whoever obtains the seat can be morally sure that the honor will be a short if lively one. No government that has to fight that hard to hold its own elements in line can expect any extended period in office. If nothing else is settled, it is at least clear that neither the Liberals nor the Progressive Conservatives will be carrying Coalition banners when the general provincial election comes around, short of a world holocaust. The sanest advice to any registered elector in Esquimalt tomorrow would be to vote as his or her conscience dictates. Two years from now it will have to be done again.

A Unique Memorial

A CEREMONY of unusual interest will take place this afternoon in Pioneer Square when the new Vimy Cross is dedicated. This memorial is now the core of Canadian Scottish remembrance, embracing its dead of two wars. The replacing of the original wooden battlefield cross by a permanent granite duplicate emphasizes the continuity of tradition that has made this Victoria regiment outstanding in the military annals of the nation.

Surviving members of the old 16th (Canadian Scottish) Battalion, C.E.F. and of the Canadian Scottish Regiment of Normandy fame will join in paying homage to their fallen comrades, including two Victoria Cross winners. Symbolic of the gallantry represented by the Vimy Cross is the record of four V.C.'s won by the regiment in the first war, a unique distinction.

The history of the Canadian Scottish is a proud one, indelibly associated with the city that is its home. It stems from the peaceful days before 1914, includes arduous field action in Europe in the two world conflicts, and is currently perpetuated by the company recently raised for service in the Western Alliance as well as by the main regimental body in the local reserve army.

The new cross itself is a modest and appropriate memorial, one that enhances the monuments of this city and will be a fitting reminder to all who pass Pioneer Square of the devoted sacrifice of the men in whose name it has been erected. They were of the warp and woof of Victoria, and should never be forgotten.

ESQUIMALT BY-ELECTION

Sir,—If public opinion is the criterion for public office, then the challenge for the existence of the present Coalition government is now, and not two years hence at the discretion of the government.

"To be or not to be: that is the question" which can be determined only by the people. This present provincial by-election and its disclosures are all that should be necessary to determine whether or not this government is constitutionally, not willing, but able to carry on.

Its major legislation is attacked from all sides; within its own party ranks, and vigorously throughout the province. A surfeit of social legislation will dull the intelligence of even the elect, for a time; but its staggering cost and pretense will be revealed in the bureaucracy it creates, and the utter dependence and frustration of government and people.

A large majority of citizens voted in favor of government control of liquor, in the interests of temperance. They did not conceive of such a scandalous set-up.

In Heaven's name, let there be a return to government of the people, for the people and by the people. Most people would not be opposed to a system of hospital insurance for those who need it. To be mandatory, such legislation should include everybody; there can be no exemptions. But the people should be left entirely free to take out hospital insurance, or any other kind of insurance they choose, at the existing rates . . .

BUTTLE LAKE

Sir,—I see by a recent issue of the Colonist that another survey is to be made in order to determine whether Buttle Lake can be eliminated from the hydro electric power project at Campbell River, and in company with others, am somewhat astounded at the apparent apathy of the Vancouver Island people.

Here is the whole situation in a nutshell. Buttle Lake has been for years the extremely private resort of an American millionaire, and due to its inaccessability, the private reserve of a favored few. The construction of a dam with the inevitable roadway would enable hundreds to enjoy the beauty and the fishing of Buttle Lake. The much-needed additional power would be made available for Vancouver Island's progress, and some thousands of people would benefit.

It can be readily understood that the Power Commission could not enter into a publicity contest against a private individual who certainly spread around plenty of his money in lawyer's fees and publicity generally. Buttle Lake can continue to be a remote retreat for an American millionaire or utilized for the benefit of some hundreds of thousands of Vancouver Island people. It may be stated that I, in company with many others, have taken a selfish view of this Buttle Lake problem and I freely admit that I would rather this reserve water power be utilized for my own benefit and the benefit of the aforementioned thousands, than left to languish in its solitary beauty for the benefit of the favored few.

I might state further that the natural beauties of Buttle Lake will be enhanced in the years to come, rather than diminished when the necessary clearing has been carried out, and these beauties will be enjoyed by hundreds due to easier access, and the added power will do much to increase the wealth and development of Vancouver Island.

G. BRISCO.

1336 Beach Drive, Victoria, B.C.

Editor's note: Buttle Lake is so little "private" that it is the centre of a public park, deeded in trust to the people of British Columbia.

Thinking Aloud

"....of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

DO you have itchy feet? I don't mean skin that tickles, rather that feeling that makes you see greener pastures behind every distant hill.

It is then that seven - league boots would come in handy. These were the kind of boots, you will remember that Hop-o'-My Thumb wore when he saved himself and his brothers from the ogre. People have been using them to fly to and from ogres ever since.

What brought up this subject of footwear was a suggestion that the Royal visitors will have such a busy schedule they would need Hop-o'-My Thumb in their entourage. They will have at that, in the form of airplanes.

But few of us have planes at our disposal, or even seven-league boots, although some motorists never lose a chance to demonstrate the analogy of speed on public highways.

Afoot, however, most Victorians seem content to proceed leisurely, as the passing downtown parade indicates every day. It is on the prairies, they tell me, that people walk fast.

Our local fellowmen, though, are interesting to watch. Here is one exception, for instance, a tall lanky chap who strides as though he had no need of legendary figures to get places. And right behind him comes a fellow with a shambling gait whom you put down as a weedy sort of individual until you learn he is quite a useful athlete.

Looks and athletics are not synonymous, any more than age and fitness. The other day I noticed the hockey obituary of a National Leaguer who won't be re-signed on this year, being all of 34 years old. Even Hop-o'-My Thumb might have been hard-pressed to keep up with this sort of yardstick.

It's remarkable how the tempo of footsteps can change. There is the story of the sergeant-major drilling a Home Guard squad in Whitehall, right below the window of a room in which Winston Churchill was working. After a while a head stuck itself outside the window and an imperious finger beckoned the R.S.M. The latter raced upstairs with vision of the O.B.E. before his eyes, but descended much more slowly while digesting a rebuke for making too much noise.

It is also noticeable how familiar footsteps can become. Sometimes they can be too familiar, as when you have a guilty conscience and the measured tread of a policeman bears a foreboding sound. Why, I wonder, is a policeman's stride always "measured?"

Then there are those timid steps that hover outside your office door, when your suspense at the delay is almost as great as the indecision that holds their owner back. Or the too confident stride—the dictionary says a stride is a pompous motion—of the person who knows all the answers.

Or, if you will, the angry heeltaps of the man full of wrath, the clicking sound of feet on military duty, or the casual scuffling step of the idle saunterer.

I suppose if you studied them intently enough footsteps might be as good an idex of character as anything else. They betray mood, for one thing, and it is surprising how with your back turned you can tell a well-known step and what it may portend.

Macbeth knew this, for he prayed the earth that it would not hear which way he went, lest the "very stones" give him away. He, too, had he lived today, would have been afraid of that "measured" tread.

Not a happy note on which to end this causerie, I'm afraid. It reminds me of Stevenson's Pew, the sound of whose stick went before him with sombre threat.

Better it would be, I guess, to recall that no footsteps sound so welcome as those family ones you hear running up the front steps after an absence from home. In their eagerness you can almost detect a seven-league boot.

Jottings From the United Kingdom

By H. J. SARGINT
North American Newspaper Alliance

LONDON—Two views are being heard in London in connection with the coming general election. The first is that the socialists are jubilant because of what they call the clever way in which Prime Minister Clement Attlee chose the date for the election so as to make it impossible for the Conservatives to hold their annual conference on October 11, thus extinguishing whatever favorable publicity the conference might have brought to them.

The second view, heard in Tory circles, is that Attlee was right in going to the country this Fall, because the prestige of his government has fallen so low that he probably would have lost more votes than the Tories think he is going to lose if he had waited until the spring. Both sides, therefore, are satisfied, and the onlooker only can conclude that each side is whistling to keep up its spirits.

For the record, it might be repeated that the present parliament will be dissolved on October 5, that the general election will be held on October 25, that the new parliament will meet on October 31, and that the state opening by the King of the new parliament will be held on November 6.

* * *

Turning back to the annual party conferences, the Conservatives will have to postpone theirs, since if they hold it between October 11 and 13, as originally planned, they would have to include the expense of holding the meeting in their election expenses, which, in England, are very strictly controlled. The socialists, whose conference is fixed for the dates between October 1 and October 5, will be able to hold it before the opening of the period during which propaganda activities count as election expenses and, to that extent, the tactical victory belongs to them.

It would be a mistake not to underline the fact that considerable portions of the country believe that Britain is on the eve of a Tory victory. Various figures are quoted, some going as high as giving Churchill's party a majority of 150 in the new parliament.

Public opinion polls all purport to show a decline in the popularity of the socialists, and an increase in that of the Tories. This correspondent, with the experience of many general elections behind him, thinks that it would be unwise to overemphasize the impending defeat of Labor, and the possibility of a sweeping victory for the Conservatives.

Anything may happen, and, all things considered, it is not unreasonable to say that the next prime minister will be Winston Churchill. On the other hand, it is anybody's guess how big or how small Churchill's majority will be.

* * *

Both Tories and Laborites are putting forth candidates for every British constituency. The Liberals are fielding, so far as is known, some 200 candidates. In 1950, when 475 Liberals stood for election and only nine were returned, many candidates emerged at the last moment, and no doubt the same thing will happen this time.

Speaking in London a few days ago Clement Davies, the Liberal leader, said that the number of candidates put forward would depend on the funds the local associations can put up. It may be noted, in passing, that the Liberal party's funds are not very great.

* * *

For the first time in British politics, television is playing its part, and though the featuring of political leaders on television screens has not yet begun, both sides remember that there are TV sets in 1,000,000 British homes. Before long the familiar faces of the parliamentary leaders will be seen on many screens.

There is a tendency among the better-known political chiefs to be a little careful how they accept invitations to speak and appear on TV, and each party is afraid that the other may have some dark horse, if one may use the expression, who will score heavily on the sets. There is no doubt that Anthony Eden, who recently spoke to the viewers and made a great success of it, would be a fine asset for the Tories.

So would the handsome and intelligent Lady Tweedsmuir. Dr. Edith Summerskill, minister of pensions, would be a most attractive speaker to 1,000,000 firesides; and so would Michael Foot, the extreme leftist M.P. On the other hand, Mrs. Elizabeth Braddock, Labor member for a Liverpool division, usually known as "Bessie," whose personality is aggressive, and whose figure is not lacking in bulk, might not be put forward by Labor as one of its spokesmen on the new medium.

Churchill, great in inches, as he is in personality, could give a fireside talk which would bring every TV set in the country into operation. The same could not perhaps be said of Attlee. Whatever his capacity as a prime minister might be, and his followers rate it as very high indeed, his personality lacks punch.

A story is going the rounds here that after a recent speech, in which Attlee spoke very critically of Churchill, the latter is reported to have remarked that the prime minister's speech was a good and creditable one, but that, for himself, he felt as if he were being savaged by his own pet lamb.

WHAT we call shrimps, the Englishman calls prawns. A shrimp in England really is a shrimp—a diminutive little pink thing no larger than a bean. You could pick up six or seven of them on a teaspoon.

Prawns — the larger article — are served in their skins or shells. One dozen of them are hung in a pretty row around the edge of a deep saucer, with their legs, feelers and tails projecting like a hedge in all directions. You eat 'em in the good old fashioned way. You seize them one by one in your fingers, peel them, dip them in any sauce you fancy, though most Englishmen eat them au natural, and pop the little darlings in your mouth. They are not as big as the shrimps we get in our shrimp salad; not so meaty. They have a flavor almost identical with ours. And the dozen of them, served in this entirely informal and personal style, costs 37 cents. As you sit at an oyster bar eating them, you find a towel fastened under the counter at you knees. You wipe your pinkies on this towel, as do all who come after you, as well as all who preceded you this day. Prawns differ from shrimps, you might say, chiefly in the way they are presented to you.

Shrimps, being in England such shrimps, are never served in the raw. Immediately after they are shelled and boiled, they are dropped into a pot of fresh butter, and as immediately fished out again. These are called potted shrimps. You get a good big saucerful of them, bigger than a serving of grapenuts. And their flavor is to the flavor of what we call shrimps what the perfume of a rose is to the perfume of an orange.

On the serious side of the news, the affair of McDonald's bank dragged on and on.

Robbed of $30,000 the week before, the bank remained closed, and every day or two The Colonist carried a paragraph of speculation about its reopening, and the possibility of catching the robbers.

Poor Josiah Barnett, the young clerk, seemed to be the scapegoat. They laid a charge against him, but a long hearing in police court did not produce one scrap of evidence, although it produced a lot of ill-feeling. They reduced his bail to $20,000 and remanded him and remanded him again, week after week.

Meanwhile there were reports from Portland that three men were spending British gold coin rather freely. Barnett himself was sent down to do some sleuthing, but produced no results. Finally the young man was discharged with a clean character, but the robbery remained unsolved.

"How did you manage to prove it?" Moscow inquired.

"Very simply. We sent the mummy to the secret police, and the mummy confessed."

News in Review

By ERITH M. SMITH
Colonist Telegraph Editor
(From AP, CP, INS, Reuters)

A new dispute is raging across the United States.

With the imminent launching of a coast-to-coast television network, Hollywood claims that she will replace New York as the US TV capital. More and more of the big shows are originating at the west coast city, and President Truman's show from the San Francisco peace conference bears out the success of the network.

New York, however, is firm in its conviction that the TV capital remains in Manhattan. There, after all, are and remain the network headquarters, and the feeling in the east is that at most no more than half of the big shows will be launched from the west.

Political Notes

Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Great Britain had a narrow escape yesterday at Slaithewaite, Yorkshire. During an election speech he was making, the metal and glass cover of an arc lamp crashed from the roof of the marquee, hitting the ground just three feet in front of the platform. No one was hurt.

* * *

Final figures have been released at Yellowknife, N.W.T., for the Sept. 17 election of North West Territories council members. Declared elected at Yellowknife is Mervin A. Hardie, a clerk, with a majority of 415 votes. Frank Carmichael, a trapper, was elected in MacKenzie West, and James Brodie, general merchant of Fort Smith, in MacKenzie South.

* * *

In New York, Eweing Cockrell, former Missouri circuit judge and a 1951 nominee for the Nobel peace prize, has asked Prime Minister Attlee and Conservative Leader Winston Churchill to support his plan for universal disarmament and an international police force.

* * *

Church Items

An Armenian church in Fresno, Calif., has broken away from its mother church in Soviet Armenia on the grounds its directives were Soviet propaganda and the heads of the church are "prisoners of Russia."

* * *

Lack of complete satisfaction with the work they had done was voiced in reports reaching New York from 150 missionaries just back from China. Terming their work "partly good, partly bad," the missionaries agreed their work should be on behalf of a unified Christian church rather than on a denominational basis, and that they should work as members of the community instead of trying to bring "our way of life" to strangers.

* * *

Miscellany

President Truman in Washington has withdrawn another 30,000 tons of copper from the U.S. government's strategic stockpile for defense production.

* * *

Netherland scientists, says a report from The Hague, have perfected a synthetic radium system of cancer treatment by the use of radioactive cobalt, which will soon replace radium treatment in Dutch hospitals.

* * *

Back in Washington again, the U.S. defense department announces that 55,900 draftees will be inducted in November and December, and disclosed also that the authorized strength of the Marine Corps has been increased by 32,000.

Drivers Given Wage Increase

A wage increase of 16 cents an hour effective Sept. 17, with four cents per hour retroactive to Aug. 6, has been won by 15 employees of Victoria Van and Storage Co. Ltd., the Labor Relations Board annouced yesterday.

Bargaining agent for employees was the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers, Vancouver Island Drivers' Division No. 234, C.C.L.

Scientists Predict Better Era

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP).—Six conventions of scientists in September predicted a better world around the corner.

These all were leaders in the great fields of chemistry, psychology of the human mind, biology, heredity, growth, cancer and aging.

They covered food—science now has the knowledge to feed 4,000,000,000 persons, better than half the number now forming the earth's population.

Cancer — new hopes breaking all along the line.

Power—new sources will compete with atomic energy.

Biology, heredity, medicine—fundamental new knowledge focussing on better medicines and industrial progress.

Psychology—how to recognize good brains and train them.

Chemists are learning more about the basic juice of life, the nucleic acids which exist in the nucleus or governing part of tissue cells. The acids control hereditary traits and growth both normal and abnormal. Cancer is abnormal.

ERA OF OLD FOLKS

The 1950s may mark the beginning of "the era of the old folks."

At least it marks the beginning of a world-wide effort to make life longer, happier and more productive. This movement crystallized at a big St. Louis meeting, which brought specialists from more than 50 foreign countries.

Geneticists now know enough about the science of human heredity to give two important human services. One is heredity clinics, to advise people what the chances are their children may inherit diseases or other troubles, that have run in their families.

The other is helping doctors diagnose puzzling diseases by getting family heredity histories for clues to diseases that are inherited. Marriage of close relatives boosts the chances that their children may show certain troubles.

Power Struggle Plainer Than Issues of Election

until the Coalition is finally dissolved.

Caught in the middle of the feuding and fighting is Coalition candidate Percy George.

Had it not been for all the fuss he might have been facing only three opponents: Frank Mitchell, C.C.F. candidate, and Independents Archibald McIntyre and Keith Grey.

ISSUES OBSCURED

Without the sound and the fury, it might have been easier to study the real issues in the campaign: the record of the government as opposed to the criticisms and remedies of the candidates opposing the government candidate.

If there is one big issue it is [illegible] point on which most electors will decide whether they have been getting good government.

Government leaders admit mistakes have been made but they claim everything possible now is being done to put the scheme in good working order. Opposing candidates claim the government let the scheme get out of hand and even now is moving too slowly to regain control.

HELD AUTOCRATIC

This criticism leads to a different issue: dictatorial government. Opponents are saying that the government is not listening to suggestions and appeals of private members and the public at large, not only in regard to hospital insurance but on other questions such as labor and liquor.

The government is relying mainly on its road program, its social security program and its industrial development record for victory in Esquimalt.

Registrations Third Higher At College

Registrations for evening division courses at Victoria College are nearly a third higher than last year.

During the last week 48 registrations were taken for three evening credit courses (second-year English, second-year calculus and first-year mathematics) and more registrations are expected.

Lectures will begin Tuesday at 7.30 p.m.

Last year, according to registrar Miss Dorothy Cruickshank, only 24 people registered for credit courses.

Over 300 people have registered for non-credit courses and more are expected. Last year only 226 registered.

Total this year 348; last year 250.

"It is an encouraging improvement," said Miss Cruickshank.

Picket Dispute To Be Aired In Vancouver

Labor Relations Board officials will meet in Vancouver tomorrow to discuss picketing of that city's Celtic shipyards.

The picketing began earlier in the week and ceased yesterday when Marine Workers' and Boilermakers' Union (C.C.L.) obeyed an injunction prohibiting picketing of the shipyards at least until Tuesday. The injunction was issued on William Stewart, secretary and William White, president of the union.

Boilermakers' were decertified as bargaining agents for 10 Vancouver wooden shipyards. Celtic shipyards subsequently signed contracts with the rival Carpenters' and Joiners' Brotherhood (A.F.L.).

In Victoria, meanwhile, the District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) may be faced with a problem.

The council recently endorsed a Vancouver C.C.L. stand that opposition be raised to the Labor Relations Board verdict decertifying the C.C.L. Marine Workers in the wooden shipyards.

That action, however, was taken before the Vancouver local began picketing the T.L.C. carpenters' union. The question may be raised again before the Victoria T.L.C. council meeting Wednesday night for reconsideration of their support of the rival Marine Workers' Union.

October 25 Set For Club Show

PARKSVILLE, Sept. 29.—Oct. 25 has been set as the date of the second annual show sponsored by Mount Arrowsmith Chrysanthemum Club. H. J. Welch, M.L.A., has been asked to conduct the opening ceremony.

The annual club dinner will be held at the Island Hall Hotel, Parksville, on Oct. 31 and will be preceded by an inter-club show of blossoms.

New School Opened By Fairey

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, Sept. 29.—One of the attractive classrooms of the new three-room school at Shawnigan Lake was filled to capacity Thursday night for the official opening.

In the absence of Education Minister W. Straith, the ceremony of dedicating the school and turning over the key was performed by Dr. F. T. Fairey, deputy minister.

The key was received by R. Marshall, representative of the Shawnigan Lake school attendance area, who also acted as chairman for the evening. A short address was given by Dr. Fairey, followed by interesting notes on Shawnigan 40 years ago by W. H. Wilson of Victoria, who taught at Shawnigan from 1911 to 1913.

OLD-TIMERS ATTEND

A number of district old-timers were introduced by the chairman. Recitations by pupils of the primary division and songs by division I formed a short entertainment. Following the opening exercises the guests examined the school.

A collection of old-time photographs was on display in one of the classrooms, with Mrs. F. T. Elford on hand to answer questions. Refreshments were served by members of the Shawnigan Lake P.T.A. Representing the Cowichan District 65 school board were Trustees W. J. Long, G. E. Bonner, W. Spencer, George Evans, Donald Campbell and secretary G. F. Dyson.

Benjamin Franklin, the American statesman and writer who died in 1790, was the 15th child in a family of 17.

Bible-Selling Job Can Be Hazardous

By EILEEN LEAROYD

Frank J. Martens, 1034 View Street, is a colporteur (salesman) of the Holy Bible for the British and Foreign Bible Society.

This sounds peaceful enough, but Mr. Martens' job is more hazardous than most.

At least once a week he finds himself in serious argument with people who have a grudge against the church (any church), ministers, missionaries, religion in general.

Once he nearly lost his life in an hour-long struggle with a crazed Indian. (The Indian is now in Oakalla prison, where Mr. Martens has delivered him a Bible.)

For his outstanding services as a colporteur Mr. Martens has been recommended for an Honorary Life Governorship in the Bible Society, parent society, London, England.

FRANK J. MARTENS

LEADS CONTINENT

Mr. Martens is the leading colporteur in North America. In 1950 he sold $9,439 worth of Bibles and texts on B.C.'s coast.

(Contrary to some opinion, colporteurs do not receive commission; they get a small, set salary per week.)

Mr. Martens, who has been selling Bibles for 14 years, says demand for the Scriptures has doubled since the war. Where six printing presses in England fulfilled the demand 10 years ago, 12 presses are now working overtime and do still not fill the need.

"In Burma," he said, "the Bible is rationed one to every 24 Christians. In Indo-China only one-third of the Bible school students own copies."

He said that in Canada 90 per cent of the Bibles are sold at cost.

BELOW COST

"What we call the popular edition sells here for 65 cents. The printing and binding costs the society 95 cents, so you see we are not out to make money - we simply consider that circulation of Bibles is one of the greatest of missionary works."

Mr. Martens explained that his work is inter-denominational.

"What church do you then personally attend?" he was asked.

"Ha," he said, "I attend some 58 churches!" Each week and sometimes in between he attends different services and finds he is as welcome in the Hindu temple as in the Baptist churches.

The colporteur finds that his knowledge of French, German, Dutch, Greek, Norwegian and Danish helps him in his work. During the past year he has sold Bibles to people on Vancouver Island in Bohemian, Chinese, Chinook, Croatian, Danish, Dutch, Estonian, Finnish, French, Gaelic, German, Greek, Hebrew, Hungarian, Italian, Icelandic, Japanese, Latin, Lettish, Lithuanian, Norwegian, Punjabi, Polish, Portugese, Romansch, Russian, Serbian, Slovak, Spanish, Swedish, Ukranian and Welsh.

CONSTANT TRAVELER

Mr. Martens, who travels in British Columbia constantly and is often away from home seven months at a time, says there is a tremendous conversion of Indians taking place in the north.

"There had been nothing like it before," he said. "I heard of a reservation near Prince Rupert the other day, where the Indians themselves have banned whisky, smoking and fighting.

"To see the order is really carried out, a squaw makes rounds with a club each night," he added.

"That is practical Christianity," he laughed.

JUVENILE VANDALS

PLYMOUTH, Eng. (CP) — Two boys under 12 years of age were charged in juvenile court with breaking 107 panes of glass on a building site. The mother of one of the boys said she would scrub floors to pay for the damage.

Fish Pact Talks Set For Canada and Japan

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—Negotiations for a mutually satisfactory Pacific Coast fishing agreement between Canada and Japan will probably be held in Tokyo the end of October.

The locale for the conference had not been definitely decided upon tonight, but decision as to the place and the opening date of the meetings will be made shortly. The present prospects, though, are that the discussions with representatives of the Yoshida government will take place in Tokyo in a month's time.

Although there has been some suggestion the meetings might be in Honolulu, this is very unlikely, barring a last-minute change in the tentative plans now being discussed.

FLY FROM VANCOUVER

Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew will probably represent Canada at the conference and be accompanied by his deputy, Dr. Stewart Bates. In the event of the expected arrangement, the Canadian delegation may fly from Vancouver with Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Mr. Mayhew discussed the matter with Premier Yoshida at San Francisco when the Japanese peace treaty was signed early this month which required Japan to sign a fishing agreement before the Japanese made any attempt to resume Pacific Coast fishing off the Canadian coast.

Dr. Bates is in Washington this week for consultation with governmental authorities there on fishing problems touching Pacific coastal waters.

Brigadier-General J. S. Dunbar Dies

A noted Canadian soldier and a keen rifle-shot, Brigadier-General J. S. Dunbar died Friday night in the Veterans' Hospital. He was 88 years old.

General Dunbar was born in Quebec and was a law graduate of Laval University. He practised law for 13 years at the same time joining the reserve of the 8th Rifles of Quebec where he rose to the rank of Major.

He joined the permanent force in 1898, and was appointed District Officer Commanding, Military District 7, New Brunswick. After that he served in Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa where in 1914 he was made Assistant Adjutant General, Canadian Army.

RETIRED 1922

When he retired in 1922 he was head of the Pension Board, Ottawa. He then brought his wife and family to Victoria to live.

Keenly interested in rifle shooting and a fine shot himself, General Dunbar was adjutant of the Canadian team to Bisley, England in 1897, year of Queen Victoria's Jubilee. He had the satisfaction of seeing the Canadian hut at Bisley officially opened.

His other great interest was gardening.

Surviving him is his widow, Ida Northland Temple; a son, Colonel Bevan Dunbar, O.B.E., Halifax; a daughter, Capt. Jean Dunbar of 2180 Beach Drive, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Church, Monday at 2.30 p.m. Archdeacon A. E. deL. Nunns will officiate. Cremation will take place at Royal Oak.

Murder Suspect Seen On Vancouver Boat

A 27-year-old murder suspect being sought by the R.C.M.P. is believed to have taken a boat from Nanaimo to Vancouver after allegedly stabbing a fellow worker on the Island Highway near Duncan.

Police searching for Albert Fairweather, against whom a charge of murder was laid Thursday night after the death in hospital at Duncan of 24-year-old Raymond Boyce, were told by a motorist that he picked up the fugitive and drove him to Nanaimo and later saw him on a Vancouver-bound boat.

He said Fairweather had shaved off his moustache when he saw him the second time.

[illegible] last week as Fairweather, Boyce and a party of other loggers were en route by truck to Victoria.

Dozens of Vancouver Island and lower mainland residents have reported seeing the wanted man or someone answering his description.

Straith Terms Death of Dr. Cameron Great Loss to Education and to B.C.

Death of Dr. Maxwell A. Cameron, author of the famous Cameron report on education in B.C. is a great loss to the Province, Education Minister W. T. Straith said last night.

Dr. Cameron died suddenly yesterday at his summer home at South Beach, near Point Roberts, Wash.

"His service to the province in [illegible] years ago resulted in a decided advance in matters of education," Mr. Straith said.

"Since that time, as head of the faculty of education at the University of British Columbia, he had continued to render outstanding service as a very brilliant younger member of the faculty," he continued.

"His death is a great loss to the province and a decided loss to education," Mr. Straith said.

BORN IN ONTARIO

Dr. Cameron, director of education at the University of British Columbia, was born in North Bay, Ont., in 1907.

He was the author of a number of books on education, including "Finance and Education in Ontario," "Administration of Education in Ontario," and "Taxation and Schools in Canada."

Receiving his early education in Regina and Nelson, B.C., schools, he graduated from U.B.C. in 1935. Before taking over his post as director of education at the University, he served as principal of Powell River, B.C., high school.

He issued his report on education in British Columbia in 1945.

It recommended equalization of taxes on land for education throughout the province, abolition of personal property tax in rural areas for school purposes and reduction of the number of school boards from 600 to fewer than 100.

It also urged the provincial government to contribute 55 per cent of the cost of basic education instead of 32 per cent.

So far, only a few of the recommendations have been put into effect.

Metal Identified As Part of Plane

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29 (CP).—A piece of aluminum found on Sugar Loaf Mountain near Chemainus Wednesday has been identified as part of a Canso plane, the R.C.A.F. announced today.

Authorities said they are checking records to determine whether it might be part of a crashed plane.

The five-foot piece of metal was discovered by a logger on the slopes of the mountain.

And they called it— YALE STREET

BEHIND THE SIGNS with Jim Nesbitt

Yale Street in Oak Bay, was named for James Murray Yale, a Chief Factor of the Hudson's Bay Company in pioneer days.

Yale was born near Montreal in 1796. As a youth he was stationed at Fort Wedderburn in the Athabasca country, and in 1818 established Colville House in the Peace River country.

He traveled the vast wilderness of the north country and for years was in charge of Fort Langley on the mainland.

Yale retired in 1860, moved to Victoria and bought land in Saanich near Royal Oak, which he called the Stromness Farm. Here he lived for eleven years. He was regarded as one of the senior citizens of the area, and his advice was always sought on important matters.

He died at Stromness Farm in 1871.

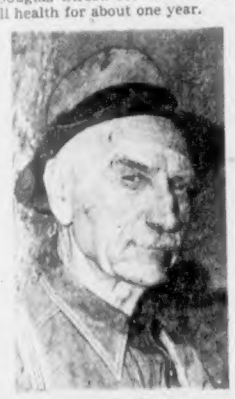
W. N. Lenfesty Funeral Set For Tomorrow

Funeral service will be held tomorrow for William N. Lenfesty, an organizer of Victoria Gun Club and one of Victoria's top sportsmen.

Mr. Lenfesty, 79, died Saturday at his home in James Bay, 126 Douglas Street. He had been in ill health for about one year.



WILLIAM N. LENFESTY

He was one of Victoria's earliest merchants, operating the sporting goods store which still bears his name. After his retirement some years ago he continued his favorite sports of fishing and hunting.

His early partner from 1880 on was Charles Pichon, both of whom were able to relate sports thrills to store customers.

Mr. Lenfesty was born in Detroit in 1872, later residing in Quebec. He arrived in Victoria at the age of 11, making the trip from San Francisco by the sidewheeler Ss. Dakota.

Services tomorrow will be held from Sands Mortuary at 3.15 p.m., Canon George Biddle officiating.

Surviving are his wife, one son, Jack, at home; and one sister, Mrs. D. J. Jenkins, Nanaimo.

Hotel Men Quitting Association

NANAIMO, Sept. 29. — The hotel men of Nanaimo have broken away from the B.C. Hotel Men's Association and expect to form their own organization next month, Russell Annett, proprietor of the Malaspina Hotel, told the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce this week.

He made the statement while the Nanaimo chamber was deciding to reject the proposed B.C. Chamber of Commerce organization on the grounds that Island chambers would lose their identity.

Mr. Annett said the Island hotel men had faced a similar problem and as a result had given notice to the B.C. Hotel Men's Association that they are withdrawing.

"We are forming our own organization," he said, "because we have never had a fair break from Vancouver, which is the head office of the B.C. Hotel Men's Association. We have cut all ties.

"Our own organization will promote Island tourist trade and deal with all matters of hotel development on the Island and any other affairs which are related to hotel operation on the Island."

Salt Spring Teams Score In Annual Saanich Trip

By DAVE BROWN and ANTHONY GAMBRILL
North Saanich High School

On Saturday, September 22, athletic teams from Salt Spring Island made their annual trip to North Saanich. On a points average, Salt Spring carried away a victory although the boys' soccer and the girls' softball game ended in a tie. Salt Spring gained points in the only [illegible] test with a victory over the boys' softball team.

In the morning the North Saanich senior boys' softball team's winning streak of eight straight games came to an abrupt end. The Salt Spring senior boys beat them 17-10 in a game played at North Saanich.

Both starting pitchers, Pat Dalton for North Saanich and Ted O'Donnel for Salt Spring turned in good performances. Dalton, however, was the victim of mediocre fielding by his teammates. With the exception of a shaky second and sixth innings, O'Donnel was never in trouble and held North Saanich down effectively.

The Salts took a three-run lead right off the reel. North Saanich however, rallied in the second to go ahead 4-3. But Salt Spring picked up fourteen more runs to North Saanich's one. North Saanich rallied for six runs in the bottom of the sixth but still fell seven runs short.

L. Goodman and T. Toynbee shone for the victors while Bill Stockall and team captain Ray Wilson both turned in creditable performances for the losers.

Team line-ups: North Saanich: D. Peddle, D. Norbury, D. Brown, D. Gray, D. Moore, P. Dalton, R. Wilson, B. Stockall and E. Bushey.

Salt Spring: J. Snow, L. Goodman, B. Aitkens, T. Toynbee, M. Jackson, M. Mouat, L. Howard, T. O'Donnel and B. Brenton.

In the senior girls' division the North Saanich and Salt Spring teams played to a 10-10 draw. The North Saanich crew had to overcome a 6-0 first inning deficit to gain the tie.

North Saanich pitchers Sheila MacNaughtan and Marie Cooper were effective in the clutch, as was Wendy Fanning and Pat Peterson, hurlers for Salt Spring. Second baseman Jean MacKay and shortstop Helen Wakefield showed up well for North Saanich and M. Twa and A. Butterfield turned in good performances for Salt Spring.

Team line-ups: North Saanich: B. Bradley, J. MacKay, B. Munro, J. MacConnachie, Y. Swift, D. Gordon, H. Wakefield, E. Coward, N. Reitan, S. MacNaughtan and M. Cooper.

Salt Spring: M. Twa, W. Fanning, C. Devine, A. Nicholson, P. Peterson, P. Donkersly, W. McGill, A. Butterfield and S. McWilliams.

In the afternoon the senior boys of both schools played a soccer game. The abbreviated contest of forty minutes ended in a 0-0 deadlock. North Saanich held a decided edge in the play but missed a few valuable scoring chances. Suffering from an obvious lack of practice, the Salt Spring squad never threatened seriously and lost an important chance early in the game by failing to score on a penalty.

Referee in this rugged contest was A. W. Murphy.

Team line-up: North Saanich: B. Stockall, D. Fish, R. Wilson, D. Peddle, T. Gambrill, J. Webster, D. Brown, D. Norbury, R. Harris, D. Gray and P. Dalton.

Salt Spring line-up was not available.

On Monday afternoon nominations for positions on the Student Council were taken at a school assembly. Paddy Dalton and Art Olsen stood as the only candidates for president, and only two, Dave Peddle and Eleanor Coward, for vice-president. For secretary the nominations were for, Nancy Reitan, Bill Fleming, Art Olsen and Valerie Head. The sports division was well filled with Barb Munro, Val Head, Eleanor Coward and Jean MacKay for girls' sports representative and Dave Peddle, Don Fish, Dave Brown and Ray Wilson for boys' sports rep. Nominations for treasurer were Dave Watson, Tony Gambrill, Betty Bradley and Joyce Coates. Class representatives and Red Cross representatives have not yet been chosen.

Electoral campaigns are being carried on at present and voting will take place on Friday.

School Cage Squads Turn Out in Force

By ELINOR THOMPSON
Mount View High School

Mount View's boy and girl bucketeers have started off the season right with approximately 70 enthusiasts turning out for practices which are ruled with iron hands by their capable coaches, Adlem, Snowsell and Burgess.

The first meeting of the sports council was held at noon Monday to elect a committee to draw up a schedule for house volleyball, basketball and softball for the coming year. Dave Price was elected president of the council with Jackie Ormond as secretary.

It wasn't a skeleton of an Ichthyornis or Tyrannosaurus Rex — no, it was the girls' Hi-Y initiation held Friday. Take, for example, one girl, wearing a man's shirt inside out back to front, bib, bow, powder, pigtails, curlers, boots, galters and anything else that senior girls could think of that would make her look awful. A party was held at Pat Walker's house where the juniors went through more ordeals and finally became fully-fledged Hi-Y girls.

STAFF CHOSEN

Elections were held for students to represent each room on the Scribe staff and to write class reports for the Scribe. Those chosen were: Amy Bandervick, Vivian Roberts, Rogers Purvis, Helen Halfide, Kathleen Marshall, Art Walker, Vivian Lee, Barney Brian and Glen Hunnings.

At a meeting of those interested in the Scribe, the following staff was elected: Dinah Kerr, editor; Margaret Tredwell, business manager; Allen Fatt, Ann Snowsell, Don Pringle, sports; Marie Merriman, features; Amy Bandervick, fashions; Florence Brooks, Vivian Roberts, art; Hugh Roberts, exchange. The first edition of this year's Scribe was put out Friday and met with sell-out success.

Elections were also held for Red Cross class representatives. A. Bandervick, M. Merriman, M. Roberts, G. Bowden, S. Pearson, D. Pemberton and L. Butler were elected to these positions.

The first roller-skating session was held Tuesday night with Ruth Trousil in charge. Approximately 15 members turned out.

GALA VOLUNTEERS

House meetings were held during the week to get volunteers for the inter-house swimming gala to be held at the Crystal Garden at 7 p.m., Oct. 7. All the splashers will be out in their best form for this gala event.

Const. D. Shepherd of the Saanich police force came to the school Friday to give the students a talk on safety education. His talk dealt mainly with driving, on which he gave some helpful hints to those who needed them.

The Glee Club executive was chosen by members Monday. Frank Russell was chosen president for a second year; Florence Scrimshaw, secretary; Margaret McGill, librarian; Margaret Nelms, Barbara Main and Hugh Roberts, representing their various sections on the executive. Mr. MacFarlane, conductor, will be choosing an operetta to be worked on by the members in the near future.

The badminton club has begun in full force this year with Mr. Livesey as sponsor, J. Pritchard, president; L. Smale, secretary, and D. Baog, equipment manager. The club has a membership of 50.

Mount View's noisy squad of cheerleaders includes: Jagindar Baines, June Budd, Allen Fatt, Murray Miller and Elinor Thompson. Rita Crossley, president, convened the meeting and told the club that a cheer team will perform at most school games and the drill team, to be chosen soon, will perform at special games.

Value of Gems Unestimated

Treasure Guarded By Primitive Tribe

JAIPUR, India, Sept. 29 (Reuters)—One of the secrets of the Orient is the contents of the tiger fort of Jaipur.

This small fortress, on a hill overlooking Jaipur, is said to be stuffed with fabulous loot from the Punjab and Afghan expeditions of the first Maharajah Mansingh under the Mogul kings.

But no one knows how much this vast hoard of jewels and precious stones is worth.

A clan of Bhils, a wild and primitive tribe, armed with cutlasses, muskets and bows and arrows, guards the fort and refuses to allow anyone within four miles of it.

Even the ruling maharajah may enter the fort only once in his lifetime.

LED IN BLINDFOLDED

According to tradition he is blindfolded and led through the fortress walls into the treasure house. There he may pick one object of his choice to take out with him.

The present maharajah has been there once, in 1944. He is reported to have chosen a jeweled bird with diamond eyes, studded with rubies, which is now in the Ranbagh Palace in Jaipur.

A year later, when there was a famine in Jaipur, some silver was brought out from the fortress' coin hoard for the relief of stricken families.

The Bhils, about 100 of them, have had the hereditary privilege of guarding the fort for centuries. They live with their families at the fort and never come down to the city.

Even their food is sent up to them and handed through a carefully guarded gate. They speak a different tongue from the inhabitants of Jaipur, so that there is no means of real contact.

Students Await Start of Exercises

Three white-gowned students wait happily for commencement exercises to start Friday night at St. Ann's Academy. Girl in school tunic is Eileen Archer, chosen as the new school president. The three graduates who have completed university entrance with honor standing are Maude O'Sullivan, Regina Petzinger and Frieda Raab.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Choice of Majorettes Follows High Standard

By HELEN KERMODE
S. J. Willis Jr. High School

This week the drum majorettes were in the limelight. On Monday approximately 75 girls turned out to try for the majorettes. Of last year's girls, 22 are still with us, and as only 20 more are required, the girls were carefully judged by Miss J. Shearman and J. Warriner on their posture, general appearance, figure, smile, rhythm (marching ability), and vitality. C. H. Denike was also on hand as it was his idea originally to have four or five girls lead the band. Thus the S.J.W. Majorettes were formed.

Last Monday the students' council held a special meeting for the purpose of electing its executive. Holding the honored position of president is Joe Moore, IXD. Barbara Turner, IXB, is vice-president, Marilyn Thomas, IXA, secretary, and Fred Scott, IXE, treasurer.

Harlene Christiansen has been named president of the drama club, sponsored by Miss C. MacNab. Donnagail Middleton is vice-president and Diane Roskelley, secretary.

SHOWERS EXPECTED

This term has seen a new feature in the school. Both boys and girls are expected to take showers following their physical education period.

Speaking of physical education leads to class instruction. The girls are now learning the fundamentals of grass hockey. Inter-house competition will start when students' knowledge of the game is sufficient.

Touch rugby is attracting the boys' interests at present. Skills are being practiced in class, and soon it will be on the inter-house schedule.

Teams for the boys' inter-school basketball league are being lined up, and try-outs for the swimming gala are to get under way shortly. Eyes are being cocked toward Central Junior High.

For U.B.C.M. Convention

City Resolution Seeks Help for Candidates

Relaxation of financial qualifications for aldermanic candidates is sought in a resolution to be presented by Victoria delegates to the forthcoming U.B.C.M. convention.

The resolution asks amendment of the Municipal Act to allow anyone with an investment of $500 in land or real property, regardless of encumbrances, to run for alderman.

The move stems from the case of Roy Whittle, elected to Victoria's city council last December and later disqualified. Although Mr. Whittle had $3,500 invested in his home, the fact that the mortgage was higher than the assessed value made him ineligible to sit on the council.

OTHER RESOLUTIONS

Victoria delegates will support resolutions from other municipalities, asking that the $500 minimum, regardless of encumbrances, be applied to candidates for other municipal offices.

Other Victoria resolutions ask:

Repeal of legislation exempting trust companies from payment of trades licenses and business taxes;

That municipal payments to hospitals be calculated on the same basis as provincial sales tax grants to municipalities;

A ban on creation of lots too small for building sites. (In Victoria the minimum is 4,000 square feet);

ARBITRATION

Beginning of arbitration proceedings between the city and its employees' unions by Feb. 15 of each year;

Surveys to determine the taxable part of church lands be paid for by the church instead of the city;

That when local improvement work is being done, a driveway may be built at the request of a lot owner and assessed to the particular lot, with payments spread over a period of years.

The convention is scheduled for Oct. 8-11 at Harrison Hot Springs. City delegates are Mayor Percy George, U.B.C.M. president; Aldermen Dr. J. H. Hunter, Waldo Skillings, William Pinfold and Aubrey Kent. City manager C. C. Wyatt and city solicitor A. J. Patton will also attend.

Pair Given Bursaries By P.T.A.

MOUNT NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

The P.-T.A.'s two $50 bussaries for 1951 have been awarded to Bernice Liddiard and Bob Dudman, both of whom are attending Victoria College this fall.

This year there are two activity periods every week for each senior student. In these periods students have the opportunity to take singing, drama, copperwork, home furnishings or to join the French club. This is the first year these activities have been available to students.

In the finals of the senior boys' tennis tournament, Bob Tubman of House III will play Roy Westoby of House II. The senior girls have already finished their tournament with Joan Hamilton emerging winner.

SEE PRODUCTIONS

Representatives from the drama club, accompanied by Mrs. Sampson and Miss Cawley, attended two drama productions at Victoria High School on Thursday, Sept. 27. The productions were: "Four Ways to Drama," showing the producing of a play called "Sam," on stage, radio, television and film.

"The Fable of the Peacock" was the second number, in which motion and pantomine were emphasized.

Mr. Hurn, director of drama for the department of education, asked opinions of the audience and explained the importance of motion pictures in education. Those attending were: Wilma McNally, Doreen Aldridge, Carolyn Sinkinson and Shirley Robinson.

Several films, among them "Eyewitness", "Island of Faith", "Oysterman", "Toronto Boom Town" and "Trooping the Color" were enjoyed by all students this week. "Trooping the Color", showing the ceremonial parades of the Welsh Guards, proved the favorite.

The first soccer game in the Wright Cup series will take place on Monday, Oct. 1, at North Saanich.

Philatelists On Island Win Prizes

Two Island philatelists have taken top prizes in the first Canadian international stamp exhibition held at Toronto recently.

Duncan collector Gerald E. Wellburn was awarded the Capex Grand Prix for his collection of British North American stamps and Harry Whittaker, of Victoria, won a bronze medal for his Sudan collection.

Eleven Canadian, American and British philatelic groups took part in the show.

Both winners, who attended the show at Toronto, are members of the 20-year-old Vancouver Island Philatelic Society.

At a banquet sponsored by officials of the exhibition, Postmaster-General Rinfret said Canada will issue a special four-cent stamp to commemorate the forthcoming visit to Canada of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. He said the new stamp would bear portraits of the Royal couple.

Paper, Annual To Be Set Up By Two Groups

By JOYCE JOHNSON
Mount Douglas High School

This year, Mount Douglas' journalism club has divided into two groups, one group will publish the school paper and handbook, and the other will publish the school annual, "Panorama."

The former group, under Miss Ireland, have chosen as their editor-in-chief, May Wong; associate editor, Shirley Ross; business manager, Elsie Hollier; circulation manager, Mae Webb; art editor, June Lum; sports editors, Marie Johnson and Bob Arwick; and social editors, Merle Emery and Heather Manson.

The Annual group, supervised by Miss M. Francis, held a meeting Monday at noon to choose an editorial staff. Joyce Johnson was chosen editor-in-chief; Lorraine Walker, business manager; Beverly Hearn, sports editor; Peggy Arwick, social editor; Ann Coleman, literary editor; May Wong, art editor; and Barry Goodwin, photography editor.

A Hi-Y house party was held at the home of Margaret Stevenson. Guest speaker, Miss Kay Burt-Smith, gave a short talk on the subject, "What it means to be a Hi-Y girl."

Mount Doug's rep grass hockey team got off to a good start by defeating Mount View 2-0, Tuesday. Both goals were scored in the first half by Joan Sutherland and team captain, May Wong.

In the interhouse competition, Douglas had one victory and one defeat. The girls scored a 2-0 win over Fraser in a grass hockey game Monday, but lost out 9-4 to Skeena in a senior girls' table tennis tournament. House standings are: Fraser 10, Douglas 8, and Skeena 6.

B.C. Church Marking 90th Year

LILLOOET, B.C., Sept. 29 (CP) — The Anglican church of St. Mary the Virgin here will celebrate its 90th anniversary on Sunday. It is the third oldest church in British Columbia.

Ven. C. H. R. Bradshaw, Archdeacon of the Cariboo, will be guest preacher at the anniversary service.

The church was built in 1861, under the incumbency of Rev. Robert Christopher Lundin Brown, the first missionary.

The Vancouver Art, Historical and Scientific Association has presented a framed plaque of the main historical items as gleaned from the first church records. Also on display will be the first altar book used in the church on Christmas Day, 1861.

Academic Leaders Get Awards at Victoria High

By ANNE POMEROY
Victoria High School

At a special awards ceremony last Friday, Vic High's academic leaders received their rewards for the efforts which culminated last June.

Lyle Robertson was presented the award for the second highest government exam average in the province, also the Vancouver Sun award and the Provincial Government Employees' award.

The Women's Canadian Club presented to Lillian Mar and Gavin Hanslip the awards for the boy and girl living south of the Malahat who had attained the next highest averages but had not been given other scholarships.

Major Green presented to Lilian Marshall the Cecelia Green Award which is presented to a student of Vic High who has a high average on the government exams but has not won other awards.

LEGION AWARD

Recipient of the Canadian Legion Naval Veteran's Branch award was Pamela Temple.

Lorraine Brown was presented with the U.B.C. Alumni award, and Shirley Saggars received the Bay Wigley Memorial Award for the outstanding female commercial student in Vic High.

The I.O.D.E. bursary winners from Vic High were Joan Orton, Marlene Vance, Violet Dawson and George Cummings.

Seven matric students were elected last Wednesday as extra members for the Student's Council. The students, who will act as chairmen on various committees are: Dick Wood, George Price, Bob Clarke, Barbara Cross, Bev Husband, Gerry Koski and Margaret Wilson.

SWIMMING GALA

Preparations for the coming Vic High Swimming Gala on October 12 have now begun in earnest. Entries have been recorded and practices began last week.

You might think on coming into the gym at 3.15 that some new torture for tardy students has been developed, but it is just the Totems, 23 strong, shaping up their muscles for the coming basketball season.

Scheduled for Oct. 2 is a practice cross-country race between Vic High and Royal Roads to be held at Royal Roads.

Returning on Monday from a three-month tour of England and the continent is Mr. N. A. Swainson, social studies teacher and soccer coach.

Also back from England where she spent the past year studying is Miss N. Douglas, who will rejoin the staff in November.

On the girls' side of sports, rep hockey began its season with two games played at Vic High, the first between Vic High Golds and Oak Bay Greens with Oak Bay the winner. The second was between Vic High Blacks and Esquimalt with Vic High the winner.

Hi-Y Groups Prepared For Action-Filled Year

By SHIRLEY HALLMARK
Esquimalt High School

Both the girls' and boys' Hi-Y groups at Esquimalt High are preparing for another action-filled year.

As in the past, the Hi-Y clubs are again strongly supported by the students. An example of this was shown by the large turnout of girls for the first meeting of the new term. The only decision that could be reached was to divide the club, for the first time, into juniors, sponsored by Miss MacKay; and seniors, under the guidance of Mrs. Clark.

At the first house party held Wednesday night at the Y.W.C.A., Val Jeanes, senior vice-president, gave a very interesting account of the girls' Hi-Y summer camp. The meeting was presided over by senior president Marg Dobrocky.

Recently-elected, junior executives include Eileen Hay, president; Shirley Jones, vice-president; Nadine Wright, secretary; and Chris Wakefield, treasurer. Again this year enthusiastic volunteers from the club will assist the Community Chest Drive on Monday, Oct. 1.

BACK ON JOB

The boys' Hi-Y are back on the job selling pop to our thirsty lunch-eaters. Hoping for a successful term as president, Ron Smith heads the group, with Laurie Dodd as vice-president, Ken Harrison, secretary and Ken Campbell, treasurer.

Students were chosen by popular vote to represent their classes at the students' council sessions. Class representatives and secretaries are: Div. 1, Jerry Carter, Pat Burke; Div. 2, Dianne Sandford, Gladwyn Hodge; Div. 3, Ray Fairless, June Hallberg; Div. 4, Jim Ord, Bessie Hampton; Div. 5, Ted Gadsby, Marilyn Eaton; Div. 6, Con Goddard, Ray Bryant; Div. 7, Ed Fairless, Joe Patterson; and Div. 8, Marie Tanner, Velma Hancock.

Esquimalt High rep grass hockey team acted host to Vic. High Blacks Tuesday, as the inter-high league got under way. Unable to set the pace, Esquimalt was shut out 3-0 by the more experienced Vic. High Blacks squad.

CAPETOWN (CP) — Believing that evolution is a complete negation of the teaching of the scriptures, members of the Dutch Reformed Church here have protested against a proposal to group exhibits in the museum to illustrate the theory.

Giants and Dodgers Stay All-Square; Final Games Today

The astounding New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers headed into the final games of the sizzling National League pennant race today all-square after scoring shutout victories.

The Giants whipped Boston Braves 3-0 behind the superb pitching of Sal Maglie yesterday afternoon to take undisputed command for the first time this season.

But they held possession by themselves for only a few hours as the Dodgers turned on Philadelphia Phillies and won 5-0 behind big Don Newcombe.

They meet the same opponents in the final games of the regular season today. If they both win or lose, a best-of-three playoff series will start in Ebbets Field

SAL MAGLIE

Monday. The second and third if necessary, will be played at the Giants' Polo Grounds.

NEWCOMBE TRIUMPHS

Newcombe came through with his 20th pitching victory as the Dodgers, knowing that a defeat would just about ruin their pennant chances, turned in sensational fielding plays with Jackie Robinson and Billy Cox the stars.

The Giants, who'll go down in the books as the 1951 Cinderella team, win or lose, have won 36 and lost seven since Aug. 11 for a percentage of .837. When they started the drive they trailed the Dodgers by 13½ games. During that period the Dodgers have won 25 and lost 22—just a little better than .500 ball.

If no playoff is needed or the playoff goes only two games the world series opens Wednesday at Yankee Stadium.

Maglie was the big man in the Giants' triumph over the Braves, holding the Beantowners to five hits. Warren Spahn, perhaps the best lefthander in the league, was on the mound for the Braves and it made the Giants' task all the tougher.

Spahn hurled creditably for the eight innings he worked, allowing the men of Leo Durocher only two runs and five hits. He retired in the ninth in favor of Vern Bickford, who was tapped for the winners' two remaining hits and one run.

YANKS TAKE TWO

In the American League the pennant - winning New York Yankees took a pair of meaningless games from the Boston Red Sox, 4-0 and 3-1. Two Yank pitchers worked each game and among them permitted the Red Sox only seven hits in the 18 innings of baseball.

Ed Lopat and Bob Kuzava shared the duties in the first game, Lopat going the first six chapters and Kuzava hurling the last three. The Sox got four hits in this one, while the Yanks, playing with a conglomeration of veterans and rookies, collected 11.

Tom Morgan and Ernie Nevel were tapped for just three hits in the nightcap. Morgan toiled five frames and Nevel the remaining four.

Golfers End Initial Lap Of Marathon

CRANBERRY PORTAGE, Man., Sept. 28 (CP).—The first lap of one of the longest and loneliest golf marathons in history closed with darkness last night as Caribou Bill Anger putted his way into Bakers Narrows, halfway point on 45 miles of winding wilderness highway to Flin Flon.

The stunt is to attract donations for girl guides in this area.

Anger teed off at Cranberry Portage yesterday morning, accompanied by two caddies and an official scorekeeper. Ten hours, 534 strokes and seven golf balls later he was just outside Bakers Narrows.

Bill is playing it cagily, using his putter on some of the highway's tougher curves. He uses his driver on the straight stretches but has been in trouble in the muskeg several times.

There'll be a ceremony when Bill holes out in front of the City Hall, maybe this week-end.

Heaneys Clinch Top Spot; Slaughter Alcos by 9-1

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Heaneys	1	0	1	11	3	3
Esquimalt	1	0	0	4	1	2
Legion	1	0	0	3	1	2
Duncan	0	0	1	2	2	1
Victoria West	0	1	0	1	4	0
Alcos	0	2	0	2	12	0

Heaneys took sole possession of first place in the Victoria and District Football Association by humiliating a short-handed Alcos crew, 9-1, at Lower Beacon Hill yesterday afternoon. It was the first lopsided decision of the new season.

The Cartagemen found themselves in top spot after the first three games in the league schedule were canceled because of the suspension of Victoria City.

Where the rain turned other pitches into treacherous mud baths the parched earth at Beacon Hill soaked up the water and the ground was the best it has been this season.

Injuries to a number of players forced Alcos to play the game with only nine men and, as the score indicates, Heaneys held command.

Play in the first half was particularly one-sided as Heaneys rolled up a 7-0 lead. Alcos did better in the second half.

Stan Wiseman, a former Oak Bay player, was at his best, booting home six goals, five of them in the first half. Vic Dovey, a former Navy player, picked up Heaneys' remaining three tallies, while Jimmy Rice scored Alcos' singleton.

Although the score would indicate otherwise, Alcos new goaltender, Earl Allen, played a sound game and none of the goals could be blamed on him.

Today's game at Duncan between the Duncan Native Sons and Esquimalt has been canceled because of wet grounds. However, the Legion and Victoria West match will still be played. It is scheduled for Royal Athletic Park at 2.30 but if the ground is unplayable, the game will be moved to Lower Beacon Hill.

Commission to Examine Victoria City Suspension

Report of the Victoria City suspension by the Victoria and District Football Association will go before the B.C. Football Commission tomorrow, Pat Mulcahy, Vancouver Island representative, announced yesterday.

Mulcahy said that City is protesting the suspension directly to the commission. A meeting will probably be held in Victoria early this week.

"It is my opinion that the association has exceeded its authority," Mulcahy said.

Mulcahy said he had spoken to John Richardson, secretary of the commission, on the subject yesterday, and that Richardson will take the matter before the commission tomorrow.

Quakers Edge Shorthanded Cougars, But Defeat Shows Strong Team

By JIM TANG

SASKATOON, Sept. 29. — Victoria's champion Cougars never took a defeat less keenly than they did here tonight.

Although losing, 2-1, to Saskatoon Quakers in the first of three pre-season exhibition games, the Cougars and the club management were more than pleased with the fine display turned in by their shorthanded crew.

Outnumbered, 19-13, the Cougars put up a fine showing for this stage of training and were the better club in the first and final periods.

Minus Eddie Dorohoy, on the sidelines still unsigned, the Victorians iced a makeshift defence, three sets of wings and two centremen, one of which was youthful Don Lardner playing for the first time at that position.

Reg Abbott and Lardner did extra duty at centre ice but as the game wore on, Jack McIntyre doubled up as part-time centreman and forward lines were badly mixed.

SHIRLEY GOOD

There was much that was encouraging in defeat. Goalie Jim Shirley played an excellent game and showed a promising coolness under fire. Leon Bouchard indicated that he is going to be of help. The young defenceman, a fast breaker and strong skater, made several good rushes and laid down some neat passes. He should improve with added experience and become a valuable asset.

Bernie Strongman was a steady and clever performer on a backline with Fiori Goegan. Bob Rowness is admittedly in need of further training and the big winger will be a lot better once he gets his skating legs.

Icing four complete forward lines and three sets of defensemen, the Quakers discovered it isn't going to be long before they start cutting. Bill Heindl and Howie Milford were the best of their defensive combinations and their top attacking unit had Chuck McCullough centreing Neil Strain and George Senick, who was a late and unexpected starter when the Quakers settled with Seattle for his services.

NO WORRIES

Saskatoon has no goal worries. Little Gump Worsley was a standout, particularly in the third period when Cougars pressed for the equalizer.

Cougars drew first blood early in the game, McIntyre getting a clean break and scoring smartly with a backhander.

It was late in the second period, when they showed a definite edge, before Quakers tied it up and the goal was offside by plenty. The offside pass put Shabaga in the clear and he beat Shirley from the side.

The winning goal resulted from a misunderstanding in the Cougar defensive area. Coach Roger Leger broke up a rush and pushed the puck towards Lardner, who didn't anticipate the play. The Quakers picked it up and Tom Fowler rapped it in after a short scramble.

About 3,500 fans turned out for the surprisingly-fast, if sometimes ragged game.

Monday Ticket Sales For October 12 Game

SASKATOON, Sept. 29—General ticket sales for the first home game of the Victoria Cougars will open as scheduled on Monday—but it will be for the Oct. 12 game against Seattle Ironmen.

General manager Fred Hutchinson today received official word from Memorial Arena manager Joe Dukowski that no ice would be available for the scheduled home opener against Vancouver on Oct. 8 and announced that the postponed game would be picked up later in the season.

Hutchinson is submitting three dates to League President Al Leader. In order of preference they are Oct. 20, Feb. 2 and Nov. 24. All are Saturdays and follow Friday night games at Victoria but can be worked in without too much of a schedule hardship. This is particularly true of the Feb. 2 date with both Canucks and Cougars having been originally scheduled for a bit of a breather about that time.

In the meantime, Hutchinson is planning to keep the Cougars in Vancouver after the league opener there next Friday until Oct. 11 if Victoria ice can be made available in time for the Oct. 12 game. The club will need an ice surface for necessary daily workouts and Vancouver is the logical selection.

Hoopla Plans To Be Made At Meeting

The Victoria and District Basketball Association will hold a general meeting at 1010 Langley Street tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Final team entries will be accepted at the meeting and plans for the opening of the season will be drawn up and schedules arranged. Only nine teams have filed entries to date.

Individuals, Victoria's entry in the Inter-City Basketball League, will hold its first workout at Victoria High School on Tuesday. The workout will last two hours and will start at 8.30 p.m., immediately after a practice of the Arrow Furniture senior "B" men's team.

Dobbs Forward-Passes Roughriders To 25-18 Victory Over Edmonton

Quarterback Glen Dobbs forward-passed Saskatchewan Roughriders to a 25-18 victory over Edmonton Eskimos at Edmonton Saturday night before 10,500 fans.

In another western Football Union game at Calgary, Indian Jack Jacobs and halfbacks Tom Casey and Jim Spavital carried Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a 33-18 triumph over the Stampeders. Nearly 8,000 fans looked on.

There was only one big league game in the east Saturday. Ottawa Rough Riders upset Hamilton Tiger-Cats 20-18.

In eastern exhibition games, Sarnia Imperials came from behind to grind out a 22-18 win over University of Western Ontario Mustangs; University of Toronto Blues thumped McMaster University Marauders 14-6 for their third pre-season win; and Toronto Balmy Beach nipped Queen's University Golden Gaels 25-24. Sarnia and Beaches share the lead in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Their victory at Edmonton moved Saskatchewan to within four points of the league-leading Eskimos. It was Edmonton's second loss in nine games—both to Riders.

RALLY LATE

The Esks scored all their points in the last half after they were down 24-0. But the rally was too late.

Dobbs passed for all four Saskatchewan touchdowns. Jack Russell caught two and Bob Sandberg and Jack Nix gathered in the other two. Red Ettinger kicked three converts and Dobbs added two more points with kicks to the deadline.

Halfback Ray Enright made short plunges for two Edmonton majors in the last quarter when Eskimos threatened to pull the game out of the fire. Their third-quarter touchdown was scored by end Jim MacRae who caught Frankie Filchok's 22-yard pass and raced another 30 yards to the Rider goal line. Coach Annis Stukus booted three converts to round out the Edmonton scoring.

Winnipeg consolidated their third-place position and jarred Stampeder hopes of catching a playoff berth.

Casey scored three Bomber majors. Spavital accounted for another and end Neill Armstrong made the fifth on a pass from Jacobs, who converted all five. Royal Copeland, Roy Jensen and Paul Salata scored the Calgary touchdowns.

Canucks Win Over Seattle By 3-2 Count

NANAIMO, B.C., Sept. 29 (CP).—Bob Ballance's goal with but 30 seconds left in the game tonight gave Coley Hall's Vancouver Canucks a 3-2 win over Seattle Ironmen in a pre-season Pacific Coast Hockey League exhibition fixture here.

Second game of the three-game series between the two teams is slated for Tuesday night with a third game scheduled at Seattle Wednesday.

Score was tied at 1-1 in the first with Seattle going up front in the second panel on an unassisted goal by Joe Bell. Canucks knotted the score nearing the midway mark of the final period when Crusher Conway set up Ballance for his first of two goals.

Canucks' kid line of Bathgate-Popein-Gordon accounted for Vancouver's initial goal and it came off Popein's stick on a two-way assist from Bathgate and Gustavson. Seattle's first counter, a solo effort, had Cal Sterns getting credit.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Sept. 29 (CP).—Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League tonight defeated St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League 3-2 in an exhibition game.

G-Men See Big Threat With Senior as Coach

"We will be a team to be looked to this season," Bill Oliver, coach of the Civil Service Commercial League hockey team, stated last night.

The team, after two unsuccessful years to find a winner, will go all out this year and it seems to have started in the right direction with the announcement that Allan Senior has been signed as coach.

Senior, a former Victoria Cougar and Vernon Canadians player, has not been signed as a player-coach but Oliver hopes that Senior will see action.

Oliver announced that the majority of last season's players have indicated that they will again sign with the club but at least two will be lost because of the Army entry in the loop. They are Rod Hallam and Gerry Younger-Lewis.

Tony Murdock, another regular on last season's club, will be out for the season because of an operation.

KEATS MAY SIGN

Among the players believed to be returning from last year is Gordie Keats, who missed part of the season when he went south. Keats was captain of the team last season.

Others expected to sign again are goalie Dave Friesen, Jim Gordon, Cliff Coulter, Steve Harris, Les Corby, Ray Ball, Gordie Morrison, Morris, Al Davyduk, Parker and Don Bloomfield.

The team has not signed any new players as yet but Oliver announced that they had several dark horses lined up and that the team would be much more successful this year.

Like every other non-service team in the league, Civil Service is trying to sign some of the league-champion Fishermen's Co-Op club, which has disbanded. But the club has had no luck as yet.

Oliver announced that if any other players are interested in playing they should phone him at G 4770 or come out to the team's first practice. When that practice is to be depends on when the Memorial Arena is put back in shape.

Next games—Saturday: Victoria vs. Vancouver City, at Victoria. North Shore vs. New Westminster, at Callister Park.

Is this the year the Victoria soccer fans have waited for so long?

Victoria United gave the impression yesterday that it is by chalking up a 5-2 triumph over New Westminster Royals at Royal Athletic Park.

The win, second straight for the local club, kept it in a first-place tie with Vancouver Firefighters in the early standings of the Coast Soccer League. Firemen posted their second win a 4-2 triumph over Vancouver City at Callister Park but one loss mars their record. United still has to taste defeat.

The game was well played despite rain which fell throughout and made the grounds treacherous. Players of both teams had trouble controlling the ball on the wet grass and it was worse when the ball hit the infield, where they encountered about two inches of mud.

United manager Tommy Restell was anything but optimistic. He commented, "they're outplaying us," at a time when Victoria was leading by three goals. It was his opinion that if Royals had done more shooting and less dribbling the result would have been different.

The number of corner kicks seemed to bear out Restell's statement. United was forced to concede five corner kicks, four of them in the second half. Royals conceded two in each half.

However, the majority of the spectators were not as pessimistic as the manager and were well pleased with the team's performance and the game as a whole.

United started slowly in each half but as the game rolled on its play improved. Playing coach Wallace Milligan put United into the lead at the 27-minute mark of the first half with his first of three goals. Milligan capitalized on a miss-kick by a Royal back and scored with a hard drive to the right corner of the net.

Victoria never trailed although New Westminster came from behind twice to tie the score. Ivan Carr, inside right, tied it up at 1-1 at the 33-minute mark. Right winger Cedric Robb lofted a pass to Ab Travis who made no mistake to give United a 2-1 half-time lead.

Royals looked dangerous at the start of the second canto and United was pressed into its own end. After several near-misses Erol Crossman tied the count with 10 minutes gone.

Den McGee scored what proved to be the winning tally with the only fluke goal of the game. His hard low shot from far out hit a Royal back's foot and bounced into the net.

Milligan added the two clinching goals on a solo effort and a header of a perfect corner kick by Ken Sneddon.

United showed much better finish in front of the goal and, except for the sound and sometimes brilliant performance of Tony Vanderheide, the score could have been more lopsided. Vanderheide lived up to Royal manager Aubrey Sanford's prediction that he is the outstanding goalkeeper in this area. The former first-class netminder from Holland robbed each of the Victoria forwards a number of times and had little or no chance to stop any of the Victoria goals.

Joe Travis also came up with his usual fine performance and was particularly sensational in the first 10 minutes of the second half when he made a number of hard stops. Bill Hope played a standout game at right back as did Den McGee at inside right. Milligan's three goals are a good indication of his play.

Line-ups:

New Westminster—Tony Vanderheide; John Dunn, Jack Sore; Levin Hibbert, Jack Johnston, Bob Hunter; Errol Crossman, Ivan Carr, William Hislop, John MacKay, Jack Steele. Spares: Arthur Lindenburg, Bob Finder, Gordon Ion.

Victoria United—Joe Travis; Bill Hope, Joe Robbins; John Pickburn, Sid Robbins, Jack Robbins; Cedric Robb, Den McGee, Wallace Milligan, Stan Bob Ab Travis. Spares—Ken Sneddon, Don McGee.

Firefighters Beat City At Callister

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29 (CP).—Vancouver Firefighters sloshed over a muddy pitch in a downpour of rain at Callister Park today to defeat Vancouver City 4-2 in a Pacific Coast Soccer League game.

Play was good despite the conditions of the grounds and the weather.

Fullback Norm Guistini scored the only goal of the first half when he put Vancouver City ahead after 10 minutes.

Six minutes after play resumed Art Hughes evened things up, scoring with a header. Jack Bowers followed with another counter for City to put them in the lead again, but Firemen caught up at the 22-minute mark when Frank Ambler headed the ball into the City net.

A 17-year-old newcomer to Firefighters, Dave Redline, and Dave Brown added the other two counters.

An afternoon with Casey Stengel is very far from being a Sunday on the farm. It is [illegible] of constant action and more than entertaining conversation.

Casey's media processes are rarely dull. We talked about Yogi Berra's batting slump, a mental episode that brought Yogi more pain than average case. Base hits are Yogi's life and dreams. They are the crowning portrait of his existence. With the Yankees [illegible] Yogi, reading Paradise Lost.

"Yogi is a desperate man," Casey said. "This is the worst slump he has ever known in baseball. And it came at a time that counted most. Under such conditions words of advice reaching to relaxation fall on unhearing ears. Yogi can't understand why he isn't hitting. From well over .300 [illegible] 30 days batting around .294. It was terrible but to the Yogi it was tough as hell and no one else suffered as much. Not even me. A fine hitter in a bad slump is a terrible sight to see.

"We got to talk to him about Joe DiMaggio. I'll tell you a remarkable story about Joe," Casey said.

Joe joined San Francisco in 1952. That was 19 years ago, a long time in modern baseball. Most players then [illegible] to be well into the decline phase. Joe will be 37 years old on November. And yet I believe right now Joe is as fine a defensive player as he ever was in his life. His legs are good. His arm is strong. He is one of the finest base runners today, at some could hope to see. No one goes better from first to third on a hit or from second to the plate. I watch him make plays in the outfield that are often miraculous. He comes in and he goes back. He makes one-handed catches. He cuts down his errors and doubles down to doubles.

"The odd part is that in based of the veteran player as a rule loses his batting punch the last thing Joe lost hitting too hard but not up to his past career."

The DiMaggio Shift

When Joe DiMaggio started this season he carried a lifetime batting average of .329. He had batted .300 or better in 11 of his [illegible] he was [illegible] .300 mark. [illegible] the year before and one of the [illegible] last year he slipped to .298. Last year Joe [illegible] .263. Horse Racing In Vancouver Best in History

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29 — Vancouver had the most successful 9 days of racing in its history this year.

It was learned today that 500 horses had been stabled in the province for horsemen was $100 instead of $500.

At the beginning of the season horsemen threatened not to run their horses across the provincial border was closed.

Attendance in provincial cities was down 25 per cent over last year.

Horsemen blamed the drop because of an economic condition that left many people with less money for the sport. The average attendance was 5,000 a day for the 9 days of racing, equal to 1950 attendance figures, it was reported.

The 89th squadron R.C.A.F. rifle team defeated the Canadian Scottish Cadets 531-522 in an inter-team rifle match during the week. It was the first match shot and the Scottish Cadets were the losers by 9 points.

The two teams were the only ones to send in targets but it is expected that the Sea Cadets and the 70th A.A. Cadets will turn in cards shot during the week.

Prominent Climb of Gold Follows Report of Fund

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Golds climbed to prominence on the Toronto Stock Exchange again this week as reports from Washington hinted the International Monetary Fund might change its position on "free market" trading.

Although this week's gold flurry was considerably calmer than the hectic session six weeks ago when Canada said she would seek a better deal at the Washington meeting, most observers agreed that it represented a more sober appraisal of the situation.

Friday's announcement that the fund had dropped all restrictions on the sale of gold came too late to affect the market. Mine executives, market traders and investors, however, interpreted the news as placing the problem squarely in the lap of the federal government.

The situation would not be materially changed, they said, if Canada continued to control sales. Also, if all output went to a free market, the government might drop its subsidy to marginal producers. They predicted a drop in the current free market price $40 to $45 in United States funds if Canada should flood the market by releasing its reserves purchased at the former fund price of $35.

Best markets for gold would be countries whose currencies tends to be unstable. European nations, Egypt and India were cited as good possibilities.

SETTLE AT $40

Most forecasters thought the final price would settle at about $40. Most operators, however, doubted that they would have a sufficient margin of profit with this rise.

All categories supported gold shares in New York Monday but stepped smartly ahead Tuesday. Rails led but radio, TV and mining issues followed closely toward the close. Movements were cautious and indecisive Wednesday with few advances more than a point.

Prices eased Thursday as light selling pressure depressed most of the list. In the sharpest decline since Aug. 22 the AP average dipped 50 cents to $90.80. The list drifted unevenly lower Friday in the slowest session in more than a month.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto Stock Exchange's indices showed industrials down 5.18 at 354.33, golds up 1.41 at 83.96, base metals down 1.27 at 194.91 and western oils down .83 at 118.64.

In the Montreal averages banks were down .01 at 28.47, utilities down .3 at 88.7, industrials down .8 at 241.6, combined down .6 at 191.5, papers down 20.41 at 855.31 and golds up .36 at 86.51.

In New York the AP average of 60 stocks dipped 80 cents to $99.50.

British Film Group Reports Net Profit

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP) — The J. Arthur Rank Organization British film group consisting of Odeon Theatres, Ltd. and subsidiaries had net profit in the year ending June 24 of $630,000 compared with a net loss of $467,000 in the previous year.

Details of the annual report released here by the J. Arthur Rank Organization in Canada, Ltd. adds that net profit before taxes was $6,000,000 and that trading profit after depreciation, but before other charges, was approximately $11,000,000 compared with $[illegible] for the preceding year.

Bank indebtedness was reduced by $15,000,000 during the year and by about $21,000,000 in the last two years.

Mr. Rank comments:

"The policy which we laid down, after the unfortunate reverse of 1948-49, namely, to restrict film production to a level commensurate with our financial resources, to reduce unfunded indebtedness, and to economize and strictly control administrative and other expenses has been continued with satisfactory results."

SATISFIED IN CANADA

Referring to the Canadian operation, which he visited during the year, Mr. Rank said:

"I am satisfied that our investment, with efficient and satisfactory management, in this rapidly-developing, rich country will become of increasing importance to this group during the coming year."

Mr. Rank said the purpose of the organization's substantial interests in theatres outside the United Kingdom is "to ensure an adequate outlet for the showing of British films. As a result we now are in the position of not only having secured an assured outlet but we are making a reasonable return upon our investments."

During the year 12 major films were produced at the organization's Pinewood Studios and the group participated financially in an additional six films of Ealing Studios. The majority of these are reaching the Canadian market in the 1951-52 season.

Mr. Rank said the film industry in the United Kingdom suffers from taxation which is "unreasonable and unfair." He added that in these circumstances he does not consider the position of film production in Britain to be an economic or healthy one, although materially improved over the recent past.

New Bank Building Opened

The stately 25-story Bank of Nova Scotia was opened this week in Toronto. Slight Gains Reported In U.S. Drive

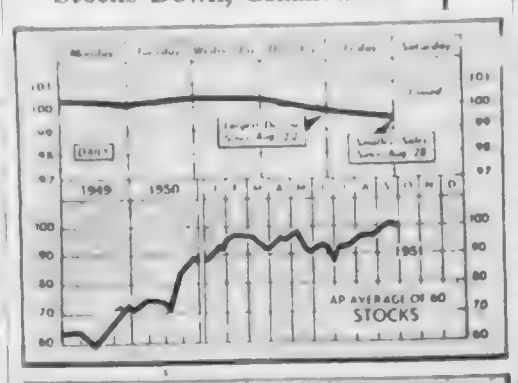
NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP) — Only slight progress could be reported last week in the United States drive to obtain more copper, lead and zinc, all in extremely short supply.

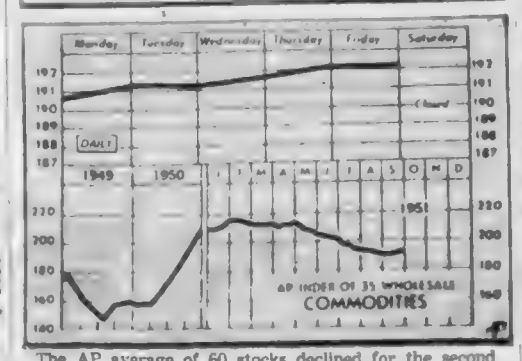
To stimulate domestic production and attract more foreign metal to the United States, the U.S. government announced that ceiling prices of both zinc and lead will be raised two cents a pound Monday, zinc advance to 19½ cents a pound and lead to 19 cents. The same ceilings will apply on imported metal.

The price increases has been anticipated earlier in the week when Canadian producers of lead resumed taking orders from American buyers. The Canadians withdrew offerings recently saying the U.S. controlled prices were too low in view of the urgent world demand on high prices being paid elsewhere. Zinc was quoted in the world market this week at 29 cents a pound and up at Gulf of Mexico ports with lead selling at 27½ cents.

A two-year main shaft sinking program is complete at Madsen Red Lake. Milling 500 tons daily. One average, $7.70 per ton, mining and milling costs $3.50. Mill production will equal the record 1950. Development costs will be higher.

Stocks Down, Commodities Up





The AP average of 60 stocks declined for the second straight week, closing 99.5 from 100 from a week ago today. The commodity index continued to rise for the fourth consecutive week, closing at 192.1 as against 190.6 last week. Grains and textiles showed the largest gains.—(AP Wirephoto chart.)

Maritime Barnes finances and options stock in Gay River Lead Mines.

Improved gold conditions will prove beneficial to Yellowknife. With 3,000,000 tons ore reserve 0.161 oun. per ton across 19.7 feet, and [illegible] tons 0.61 ounces. Net assets $56,000.

Flexible Doors Available to Local Builder

A "healthier," handier, cost-cutting interior door has made its debut on the Victoria building scene.

These ultra-modern closures are a space-saving boon, particularly to builders of small homes, and apartment dwellers, when used as doors for walk-in closets, as partitions for concealing kitchenettes, or for similar purposes.

They also can be utilized with space and cost economy in schools, churches, institutions, commercial premises and in industrial plants as doors or for the separation of rooms or departments.

Thousands are being used in large-scale housing developments and in plants in the United States.

They are made from strong northern basswood splints. These are one-tenth of an inch thick and seven-eighths of an inch wide and run vertically woven together with tough seine twine, much like that used in fishnets.

Four advantages are cited in connection with their use.

There is a substantial reduction in installation time and cost. This is because they can be easily hung (suspended from an ordinary transverse channel), and fitting of hinges and other door hardware, as well as "fitting in" time associated with the conventional door is eliminated.

Because the flexible door folds to either side of the frame space lost to the swinging, hinged door is saved.

There is a dollar saving per door unit in over-all cost (initial cost plus installation).

Finish-painted at the factory, the flexible doors do not require additional painting.

They come in a range of 11 standard lacquer enamel colors to satisfy the taste of any decorator. A natural finish which highlights natural graining and tone of the wood, also is available.

Boom Draws Industrial Eyes to B.C.

By ROBERT A. FRANCIS

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 29 — (CANA) — The industrial boom under way in British Columbia, spurred by the influx of capital from the U.S. and eastern Canada has pointed to the realization by industrialists that this province probably has the continent's last important undeveloped store of natural resources.

After decades of steady but slow development British Columbia finally has been "discovered" by the explorers of big business.

Lumbering, long the province's principal industry, is in a tremendous state of expansion. A $[illegible] aluminum and hydro-electric power project is giving impetus to employment and secondary industries. Expansion in construction industries, base metal mining and smelting, shipbuilding, road and railroad construction, farming, fishing, oil and gas exploration and retail sales have combined to give British Columbia its most startling push since the gold rush of the 1860's.

With a population of only 1,000,000 the province finds itself beginning to develop fast in its untapped hinterland.

NEW CAPITAL

In the first half of the year $300,000,000 in new capital was poured into the province on top of last year's investment of $380,000,000. The whole western seaboard of Canada is alive with activity.

The pulp and paper industry is going into a $[illegible] expansion immediately with new [illegible] planned which may mean a capital expenditure of as much again. The biggest item is a $[illegible] project on Vancouver Island.

Lumbering itself is pushed about [illegible] last year's record production of $[illegible].

The big development is the Aluminum Company of Canada's plant and city at Kitimat. The investment eventually will exceed $[illegible] and the enterprise will be the world's largest aluminum producer.

Because of the huge power supply needed Alcan already has begun constructing a large power development on the Nechako River.

Columbia Cellulose recently opened a $27,000,000 plant near Prince Rupert to turn out high alpha pulp for rayon and plastics. This scheme may run to a $100,000,000 investment when completed.

HEADS FOR RECORD

Base metal production appeared to be headed for a record year above the $152,000,000 production of 1948. At Trail in southeastern British Columbia the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company's plant, one of the world's largest base metal producers has a $[illegible] expansion program, including a new hydro-electric development.

Farming, the province's third industry with $131,000,000 in production last year, was having a good season and salmon fishing was booming.

Ten million acres of new land have been taken up in northern British Columbia for gas and oil exploration and pipelines are planned from northern British Columbia and Alberta to Vancouver.

Shipbuilding, with defense contracts starting to roll in, gave the west coast another boost in employment.

Establishment of a steel industry on the west coast, using concentrates produced elsewhere in the offing. Recent geological surveys have reported finding a great deposit of iron ore near Texada.

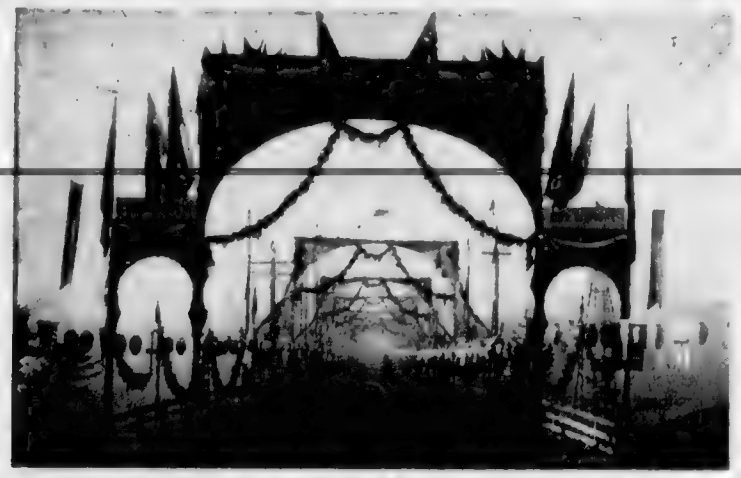
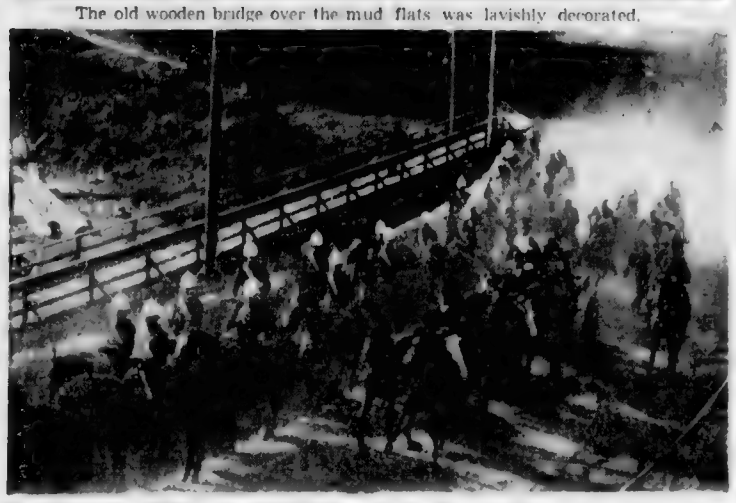
Victoria Lavishly Decorated For Royal Visit 50 Years Ago



The old wooden bridge over the mud flats was lavishly decorated.



The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York return over the dusty Esquimalt Road after lunching aboard H.M.S. Warspite.—(Photos from B.C. Archives.

By JIM NESBITT

Half a century ago this week and 1901 Victoria put on a tremendous show to welcome the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York later King George V and Queen Mary.

Never before or since was the city so lavishly decorated. There were spectacular arches at half a dozen spots, the old wooden bridge over the James Harbor mud flats was dressed with bunting, flags, evergreens, welcome signs and Japanese lanterns. Whole bolts of red, white and blue cloth streamed from office windows. Victoria, in the style of the day, rocked like a circus.

Victoria really let itself go to greet a smiling, bearded future monarch, who was to reign 25 years, and the tall widows, Princess May, now at 84 England's Queen Mother.

LARGE RETINUE

The Royal couple had 38 maids, valets and assorted servants. Their retinue was composed of a dozen lords and ladies including the Princess's brother, Prince Alexander of Teck, later the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General of Canada. The party landed at the Outer Wharf from the liner Empress of India.

There were no motor cars in those days so all the city's finest carriages were commandeered. The party brought its own specially trained horses. The Colonist noted: "Two magnificent stables have been built in Oak Bay Park for the horses of Their Royal Highnesses and suite. The horses with the party number 75. 50 for the Mounted Police and the other for the Royal carriage aides and equerries."

The Duke and Duchess stayed at the Mount Baker Hotel on the Oak Bay waterfront. The David Spencer home on Moss Street was a temporary Government House, not large enough to accommodate the Royal party. Cary Castle had burned down and the present Government House was not completed. At the Spencer home the lieutenant-governor, Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere gave a dinner for the Royal couple.

The Duke opened the exhibition at the Widows. Mayor Charles Hayward erected the Royal pavilion, the colonist reporting: "His appearance attired in dark Prince Albert coat and carriage hat, with a lady's hat and carriage has had a decided and convinced with the Duchess with the gentleman was received. Miss Mary Grainge of St. Ann's Academy presented to the Duchess a little book mounted on boxing cloth and containing three poems written in gold letters by pupils of the academy, one being by Miss Mary Crofts and the other by Miss Frances Healey, also a poem of music entitled 'Heart Thoughts' by Miss Anna Motgrade.

The Royal couple drove down the dusty old Esquimalt Road in their shining black carriage, the Duchess shielding herself from the hot sun with a parasol. To save honoured were Rear-Admiral Bickford aboard H.M.S. Warspite on the way home. The Royal carriages drawn through by picturesquely dressed Indians. The Colonist said: "Time was fleeting and the carriages hurried through Lekwiltok Indian Chief's son. H.R.H. gave a good-will handshake of the prettiest kind. Rounding the Hill, carriages drove at a good pace, leaving the cheering crowd watching the dust from the quickly receding carriage wheels."

BOARDED LAUNCHES

While the Duke rested in his hotel suite the Duchess and her ladies-in-waiting drove to Point Ellice Bridge and boarded a fleet of launches. Said The Colonist: "Embarked in these they proceeded up Victoria Arm, drawn on the strong awkness for which that favorited reach is so far famed. The bright clear sunlight never could be a cloking blue made the trip delightful. After admiring the beauties of the Gorge the launches were headed for Premier James Dunsmuir's boathouse where the party landed and made a call on Mrs. Dunsmuir at Berleath."

The Duke and Duchess attended a public reception in the Legislative Chamber and went to Jubilee Hospital, to be greeted by C. A. Holland, president of the board of directors, Matron Alcorn and resident physician, Dr. Hasell.

After a busy two days the Royal party returned to Vancouver in the Empress of India and started home to London, after being away eight months on an Empire tour.

Story Brings Travel Funds

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP)—One week ago Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Henderson walked into the office of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Red Cross to ask for assistance to get them to Scotland.

Mrs. Henderson, 29, wanted to get back to her parents in Glasgow who had offered to take care of her four children and help her husband make a new start in life.

Doctors here had given Mrs. Henderson six months to live—she is dying of lung cancer.

The Hendersons needed $550 for their fare and to them that much was a fortune. Monday, a Toronto newspaper ran the story of their plight. By today a total of $3,740 has been donated by persons who read that story.

Handy Around Camp Fires

FIG. 1

FIG. 2

IF YOU ARE [illegible] camped in the same spot for more than a few hours and are not planning that a one-night stopover it is advisable to spend a few minutes making the Rhodesian [illegible] more [illegible].

The [illegible] of camp pot [illegible] shown in Figure 1 is [illegible] by cutting a small forked branch so that a pair of [illegible] can be trimmed to [illegible] the branch must be strong. The forked [illegible] should be sharp [illegible] long.

HOT HANDLES

You will find [illegible] very handy for hooking up the hot [illegible] handles when [illegible] one. Also it makes an excellent campfire poker. The fork can be used to fire up the [illegible] burning wood when [illegible] to adjust its position on the fire and [illegible] a good tool for raking together glowing coals. However be careful that you don't let the poker stay [illegible] enough to weaken it [illegible] may get scorched while using it for moving a dixie. The extra time spent to make one for each purpose may [illegible] worthwhile.

DON'T DO IT

Kicking a [illegible] together with your [illegible] boots be [illegible] cause wood ash being alkaline consumes the oil leaving or grease [illegible] and heat is extremely bad for leather. Another bad habit is using a spare axe to hook wood around on a fire. This nicks the edge and the temper [illegible] because a thin razor-sharp edge will wear very rapidly.

A good strong limb crotch as illustrated in Figure 2 will prevent burned fingers and [illegible] in pouring out liquids out of a dixie. With the handle of the dixie [illegible] by some potatoes you can place the crotch under the [illegible] and tip up to a pouring position as shown in Figure 3. The handle portion of various cooking devices will fit well in the crotch and be particularly supported on two sides.

A USEFUL ITEM

One very useful item that can easily be made in your kit is one or more small light stakes that have been provided with a hook at either end. These are used to hang dixies over your campfire and can be adjusted to lengths so that the dixie will hang at any required height. They are fine to passing one end of the stake from the pole over your campfire and hooking one [illegible] time. [illegible] any desired [illegible].

[illegible] a good [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] able. A few minutes spent on these preparations often saves several times the time spent and gives an efficient camping.

Along the Sports Trail

Keeping the peace on [illegible] has become one of the [illegible] concerns of big league baseball. The Philadelphia Athletics for example spend more than $1,000 each 20-week season for cops and security men [illegible].

[illegible] Mack's old chauffeur, Howard Campbell, [illegible] towels through the washing every day the team plays. Dates far city from the old days when [illegible] were almost [illegible].

Meanwhile, [illegible] that such heroes as Mack [illegible] of the Athletics [illegible] beginning a game in a clean uniform. They'd dig [illegible] two flannels at first with [illegible] clothes before [illegible] the game. In those days the White Sox were the big [illegible] in [illegible]. Their dirty [illegible] were [illegible] of old [illegible].

THE major work in the first concert of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra subscription series which will take place next Wednesday is Beethoven's Sixth Symphony in F major, Op. 68. Like the third symphony it bears a subtitle in Italian ('Sinfonia Pastorale'). It is so often referred to, and thought of as though it were a kind of frivolous joke by the composer, that I take particular pleasure in asserting that it is one of Beethoven's greatest and most philosophical inventions, and I find I am in good company in this appraisement of it, for Donald Tovey, in his Essays in Musical Analysis gives it only slightly less space than he reserves for the Ninth Symphony, and more than twice as much attention as he spends on the more famous Fifth Symphony.

* * *

In their concentration on the fact that it is one of the earliest examples of illustrative or program music most commentators have overlooked the fact that it is still one of the most notable pieces of symphonic composition. True, Beethoven has given a few indications of his musical intentions in order to convey to his listeners what main purpose he had in mind, but these suggestions, bearing as they do the imprint of Beethoven's own authority (as opposed to the entirely unauthorized description of one of his piano sonatas as a 'Moonlight' sonata, which is pure moonshine, dear reader) are by no means an excuse for any relaxation of the powerful impulses which animate all Beethoven's essays in symphonic style. There are the customary four movements and, although it is convenient to particularize five separate phases of the work, it would be more accurate to say that it is in only three parts.

The first section describes the "awakening of happy feelings on getting out into the country" and like the second, entitled "by the brook side" it is complete in itself. For both of these sections Beethoven is content to use only the strings, woodwinds and horns. He reserves his two trumpets until the third section, the "merry gathering of the country folk" is well commenced, in fact, to revert to technical terminology, they are not heard until the trio section of this scherzo and trio.

It is in the trio that the composer gives an amusing representation of a village band with a most assertive bassoonist who knows his part extremely well and makes sure that he is always on time with his three notes. Thereafter the trumpets join in the unsophisticated party of the lusty peasants in the disordered rhythm of a free for all dance.

* * *

Out of this grows the somewhat controversial thunderstorm section (part 4) which requires not only the trumpets but also two trombones to achieve its most powerful climax. Nevertheless it is a mistake to assign to this piece of imagery realism as it is any more significance than Beethoven said it meant for it. It is not by any means a catastrophe for one working in the country who has by chance stumbled on a jolly gathering on a village green to face the prospect of nature's shelter for a few minutes rather than get drenched in an unexpected orange.

It is rather good fun to lean the window and watch the lightning from a suitably sheltered spot listen to the powerful harmonic mutations when the storm is at its height, and the resources of nature are momentarily alive to give the richness of the coloring and compare it with the simplicity of the previous movement. See how Beethoven can portray the contrast of colourings, firstly native good humor and then the overwhelming natural forces of the elements unloosed. Do not lose sight of the fact, however, that this is momentary and not permanent.

The storm scene is merely a prelude or introduction to the 'Shepherd's Song,' 'Happy and Thankful After the Storm.' Here is so much leisure and time for reflection that the main theme, a kind of yodelling on a shepherd's pipe is repeated not once but twice each time it appears. Here again the colourings are more intense than at the outset of the symphony, the countryside has been refreshed by the rain, and the traveller having enjoyed the fresh air after being for so long dry-pent, and having seen nature aflame in all its majesty, is the more satisfied and better able to give thankful expression for the wonder of such variety of scene and climate.

* * *

I have refrained from following the many controversies about Beethoven's tempi. You will hear the nightingale, the quail and the cuckoo twice in the last few bars of the slow movement, one of Beethoven's most spacious tone poems. He only means a flute an oboe and a clarinet and with a brief excitement from the strings it is all done within a couple of four-bar phrases, an exquisite coda not more or less beautiful or interesting than all that has preceded it, but exactly right in its context.

A Few Personal Notes About Sir Richard McBride, His Charm and His Place in B.C. History

By JAMES MORTON

[illegible]

A GOOD MEMORY

[illegible] he [illegible] was his memory for names. He knew [illegible] human nature to be aware that people liked to have their importance marked in that way. On one occasion he was accosted in New Westminster by a man whose name he could not recall. He went into his heart-to-heart and asked for the name which being given, he referred and addressed the man quite familiarly. He loved crowds and showed no discrimination in being 'mister' or 'Jack', according to the person, though the more familiar the title, I am sure the better he liked it.

1912 CAMPAIGN

Sir Richard never showed to better advantage than in that campaign of 1912 which was to be his last. The set speech he used had been prepared with what for him seemed unusual care, whether by himself or assisted by others I cannot say, but instead of his ordinary carelessness of fluency his topics were marshalled in good order. At that he spoke mostly in broad generalities, seeing. However to fill in the details something he could do most effectively. They were a well coordinated team. Wherever they went they were received by cheering crowds, sometimes accompanied by fireworks, sometimes by a band. The prosperity seem had reached the crest and bore them on to the most smashing and complete of all McBride's victories. But it was the ship on the crest before it plunged into the hollow.

LAST ILLNESS

There was something deeply pathetic in his last illness and death, so far from the land he loved. When I first went to the press gallery in the early years of his premiership I thought him rather over-obsequent and effervescent, but in a year or two, notably after a brother's death, he calmed into the gracious manner that never afterwards deserted him. I think one secret of his success was his warm-hearted Irish sympathy combined with freedom from personal bitterness. I never heard him say anything malevolent even against his most acrid opponents. On one occasion Parker Williams had attacked him with that humorous sarcasm of which he was a master. Soon after that McBride went over, placed his hand on Williams' shoulder and leant down, to speak to him. I never knew what he said but I saw that it off the person sounded smiling.

[illegible] who had been a candidate in Kamloops against the government told me that once when he was ill in a hospital in that city the Premier went out of his way to [illegible] him.

[illegible] this incident [illegible] to the press and [illegible] generally to follow the example of their colleague New Westminster in speaking of him as 'our Dick.' Whatever the final verdict of history be will long be remembered as a human [illegible] for [illegible] the people of [illegible] province.

Old Homes and Families

By Jim Nesbitt

IN THE late 60's the great public argument of the day in B.C. was the political future of the Crown Colony of British Columbia.

There were those who wanted to remain a Crown Colony, there were those who wanted to become a province of the United States, there were those who wanted to become a province of the Dominion of Canada.

The argument went on for years to the accompaniment of many heated discussions on street corners in saloons, in the legislative assembly of the colony. There were frequent public meetings.

One of the leaders in the move for confederation was H. E. Seelye. He was never forgotten, for he made good pioneer citizens but he did his best to make British Columbia Canada.

FOR CONFEDERATION

A "great public meeting" was held one March night in 1865. The Colonist reported it "Confederation meeting the Theatre Royal was filled last evening by citizens who had met upon the call of C. Major to consider the question of confederation.

Ex-mayor Humphrey Franklin, upon motion of Mr. Bidwell and with the unanimous consent of the meeting, took the chair. Mr. H. E. Seelye was chosen secretary.

"Mr. Franklin briefly stated the object of the meeting, which was to consider the advisability of the colony joining with the older provinces in a confederation and forming an empire having control of its own destinies. It was a question that required much consideration and he urged upon the citizens not to repeat the mistakes made when they hastily consented to continental union (applause)."

INTO THE FUTURE

"Mr. Seelye read an extract from The New York Albion forecasting that 20 years would find British North America one of the most commercially powerful states in the world, with an unbroken chain of communication from Atlantic to Pacific. Mr. Seelye made a few appropriate remarks in favor of the scheme, loudly twitting the obstructionists, who were he said, as necessary in every community as the brakes on a wheel, and who desired popularity some way or other if not by proposing anything themselves, then by opposing what others advanced (applause)."

C. B. YOUNG
. . . called 'Codfish.'

BATTLE BEGINS

It was at this point some fun started. The Colonist said: "C. B. Young mounted the stand and was received with applause and cries of 'codfish.' He asked the people not to rush blindly into confederation.

'A voice now, Mr. Young: are you speaking as an Englishman or as an American?'

'Mr. Young: I am speaking sir as one in whose veins flow the purest blood of both (uproar applause).'

Mr. Seelye kept up the fight with the other confederationists. It was rough going at times but events were on the way. Mr. Seelye was a newspaperman and in 1866 the Colonist sent him to Ottawa to report one of the meetings that led to the province joining Canada, in 1871.

PLAYED A PART

In July of 1870 the Colonist reported that "The Ottawa Citizen said: 'We mentioned yesterday the departure of a party of the delegates from British Columbia, the Hon. Messrs. Trutch and Carrall. Today the Hon. Messrs. De Boucherville and Langevin, with Mr. Seelye, the special representative of the British Colonist of Victoria. Mr. Seelye did not come to Ottawa to watch the negotiations for union in an official capacity but only in his [illegible] as a newspaper correspondent' [illegible] we have reason to believe the [illegible] presence here has been of [illegible] service to British Columbia [illegible] that it has been appreciated [illegible] by the delegates and [illegible] government."

As best as [illegible] Mr. Seelye [illegible] a small black [illegible] on [illegible] street opposite the Mr. Mr. [illegible] CPR of [illegible] and [illegible] in Victoria [illegible] their names are not mentioned in the papers except when the daughter was married.

Mr. Seelye was evidently a man of many parts. First mention of him in the Colonist was June 27, 1866: "Accountant and collector—Mr. H. E. Seelye has opened an office on the first floor of a building on Langley Street for the transaction of a general collection and agency business. We commend Mr. Seelye to the attention of the public."

AS PUBLISHER

Later he was not the [illegible] end of a news item in the Colonist of February 20, 1869 noting: "The British Columbian, an advertisement announces that this journal will appear in Victoria on or about the 8th of March as a daily. Hon. John Robson will continue as editor and it is understood that the services of Mr. H. E. Seelye formerly of The News and Carrier Station have been secured as business manager. The journal will leave New Westminster without a newspaper but it is mentioned that the plant of The Year Examiner will be brought down the river and the publication of a new paper commenced in New Westminster forthwith."

Having Columbia safely into confederation, those who fought for it were duly rewarded by a grateful Dominion government. Mr. Seelye left newspaper work and became a government servant.

FARNS REWARD

The Colonist of June 28, 1872, said that "Federal appointment H. E. Seelye of this city has been appointed, and we believe has accepted, an important appointment in the Dominion customs department in British Columbia. Mr. Seelye is a native of New Brunswick where he early identified himself with the Liberal political party being a staunch supporter of the Tilley Mitchell administration. He held an important appointment in connection with the European and North American Railway. He was a Justice of the Peace and a captain of the Volunteer Rifles in his native province.

H. E. SEELYE
. . . [illegible] in his twilight

"Amongst the earliest advocates of Confederation was he came here to be one of the first and most earnest promoters of its extension to the Pacific and both here and at Ottawa where he went as representative of this journal, he did good service. Mr. Seelye's presence at the federal capital during the negotiations on the terms of union had much to do with the conversion of Hesperus. The Government then the powerful public art perhaps aware of [illegible] has been better served than Mr. Seelye's appointment. He remained in the interior for three years and when he died in April of 18[illegible] the Colonist reported: "It is our painful duty to record the death of Mr. H. E. Seelye, Mr. Customs. Mr. Seelye came to this country in 1862 and [illegible] in [illegible] Hope. Charlie Chislett: The Master Printer

SUDDEN panic flared in The Daily Colonist composing-room one hot July night many years ago.

With press time only a few minutes away the pressroom sent up word that only 19 pages were ready to go. Where was Page 20? A frantic search disclosed no sign of the missing page.

Composing room superintendent Charlie Chislett grabbed an old full page advertisement and sent it down.

Next day sweltering Victorians were surprised to read an advertisement illustrated by a thermometer registering several degrees below zero. The message read:

"Keep warm, wear Stanfield's underwear."

Among the few insane mishaps that spice a half-century in the printing trade, that is one that Charlie Chislett would sooner forget. He never tells the story himself.

In the organized day-to-day frenzy of putting out a newspaper while the town sleeps, the wonder is that such accidents do not take place more often. The best printer plays a part occasionally in a comedy of errors.

ONE OF THE BEST

Since Charlie Chislett put The Colonist to bed last night for the first time in his life and said goodbye to the newspaper he served so long, every one remembers him as one of the best of the printers and the best of the men who have passed through the old news-paper.

He stalked among the clinking linotypes like a purposeful bear with a pipe full of copy and a crooked pipe hanging from his heavy jaws. Charlie Chislett was nearly the boss of his shop. He did not suffer fools gladly. He plodded through the working day with gruff efficiency and wasted no time in diplomatic fencing.

But he was quick to solve the recurrent crises of a composing room. To people in trouble he offered help and as many kind words as his dignity allowed.

A state of mild war exists between the composing room and the editorial department of almost any newspaper. Several generations of desk men have occasionally known his wrath as he thunders into their domain at midnight and demands to know how the blankety blank they expect to fit 70 columns of type into a two-column hole, or how they propose to have four hours' setting done in one and a half.

After crowing that the thing is impossible, he often does it.

MECHANICALMINDED

His 48 years as a printer began before the linotype. That genius, as and highly complicated typesetting machine which can do almost everything but think, was in general use. But he mastered it.

"As a workman he is particularly good," a veteran colleague remarked. "He used to make up the pages of The Colonist practically by himself for years. If somebody got stuck with a machine he fixed it. He didn't know anything about linotypes any more than we did, but he fixed 'em anyway."

His flair for things mechanical is not confined to the shop where he worked.

"He had an old Ford in the early days," the colleague said. "If you ever wanted to find Charlie you'd find a couple of legs sticking out underneath. If the car wouldn't run he'd take it apart to find out why it wasn't."

The late Tom Wainwright, another veteran printer, was stuck at Mill Bay with a dead battery one night. When work was over Charlie drove out there with a new one for him. Everyone with mechanical headaches called on Charlie Chislett, who nearly always had a remedy.

His father was a founder who came here from Fort Hope, Ontario. Charlie was born in a cottage where Victoria Y.M.C.A. now stands. He attended Spring Ridge School on Chambers Street (Premier Byron Johnson was a classmate). Then he went to Central School and afterwards to North Ward School, where he was one of the first pupils.

At about 13 he went to work as a messenger boy for the printing shop which was running off the proceedings of the Behring Sea Sealing Commission then sitting in the plush old Driard Hotel. He meant to go back to school but somehow he never did. So Victoria lost an engineer and a scientist gained a master printer.

WAGGISH PRINTERS

He started as a printer's apprentice at another Victoria newspaper, and charged over six months later to The Colonist. The wages were $2.50 for nine hours a day, six days a week, which looked like good money to Charlie then.

Those were the days when a green hand was set to work searching for "type lice" or "stretchers" or "long-stretch" or "short-stretch" or "blank-stretch" or "blank-short-stretch" or "blank-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-stretch" or "blank-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-short-long-stretch" or "blank-long-short

Men Who Keep the Army on the Move

By Trevor Collins

Sometimes known as the backbone of the Canadian Army, are men who repair and service the equipment. At the Bay Street Armoury members of the 10th Technical Squadron are charged with the job. Shown lifting, on his back, working on the rear wheel of a truck, is Cpl. O. C. Robertson.

Members of the unit are even more familiar with the Bren gun than the soldiers who use them. Shown examining one recently removed from storage are (left to right) Sgt. J. R. Hewitt, Cpl. H. C. McNaney, Cpl. M. D. Leavitt and C.S.M. Percy Stimpson, M.M.

All men are specialists—or under training—at their trades and nearly every repair job can be handled in the workshops in the basement of the armoury. Shown welding a [illegible] on a tractor training model are (left to right) Cpl. J. G. Lemieux and Cpl. L. E. Clarke.

NO. 246—NINETY-THIRD YEAR | VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1951 | SECOND NEWS SECTION

Delicious Mushrooms Product of Careful Cultivation

These mushrooms will soon grace the dinner tables of Victorians after being picked and boxed on Saanich farm of grower Victor Wilson. Two varieties are being developed by Mr. Wilson "whites" and "creams" the latter being most popular because they have a stronger flavor and go further in sauces and gravies.

Mushrooms are grown in building like this—the first of a total of four to be built on the Wilson farm. Construction of remaining three buildings is expected to be completed by Nov. 1 and they will have a growing capacity of 50,000 pounds each year with 36,000 square feet of growing space.

Grower Victor Wilson picks mushrooms with a clockwise twist in what is known as the third "break" of growing cycle. There is a fresh break every 10 days and after the 10th, everything is thrown out and fresh soil is put into the growing beds for the next 10 cycles.

A. J. Wilson, of Prospect Lake, helps his son out in growing of mushrooms. Once known as "King of the Mushroom Growers" when he lived in Hamilton, Ont., he came out here to retire but went back in business to aid son. He produced 60,000 pounds per year in eastern city. Group Plans 42 Classes

Forty-two Pro-Rec classes will open simultaneously in the Greater Victoria district Monday.

Classes, free to the public, are divided into the following groups, women, men, mixed and junior.

Activities for women include rhythmic gymnastics, indoor and bench exercises, folk and square dancing, concentration, ballet and tap dancing, tumbling, vaulting, swimming, diving, boxing and skating.

Men's activities include fundamental gymnastics, tumbling, vaulting, springboard tumbling, high bar, rings, parallel bars, weight lifting, table tennis, volley ball, basketball, swimming, life saving, aerial trapeze and ice skating.

Mixed classes include basketball, ice skating and square dancing as well as swimming and boxing for members [illegible] state for the first.

NEW CLASSES

Three new senior training classes will be organized this year at Mayfair, Second and Wednesday mornings, Hillcrest on Thursdays and Happy Valley on Fridays.

Instructors for the new season are Mrs. Gwen Ion, Mrs. Dupe Goodspeed, Mrs. Betty Cormie, Mrs. Frankie Grant, Miss Enid Archer, Miss Ruth Chassey, Lance Lard, Don Jackson, Dan Ferguson, Jack Medland, George Smith and Bill Anders.

Chief instructor is Ed Kocher. Special instructors in figure skating will be Jean and Thornton Cope.

Arrangements have been made to start Pro-Rec classes at Salt Spring Island, Chemainus, Youbou, Kuper Island, Port Alberni, Great Central Lake, Courtenay, Campbell River, Tofino and Ucluelet.

Shortage Of Leaders For Scouts

There is still a shortage of scoutmasters in the Victoria district.

Freeman King, executive scout commissioner, said yesterday that a course will be started in the near future for those interested in becoming scoutmasters.

A district training course for cub leaders will begin Oct. 3 at 8 p.m. at 1934 Johnson Street. The course will run for four weeks, one night each week and will include practical work.

Rover crews of the Victoria Lions Club and the Fairfield groups will make a cross-country orientation run, by compass, today.

Ratepayers Sent Check By E. & N.

Victoria Land Ratepayers Association today received a $80.50 cheque from Canadian Pacific Railway as proceeds from the recent E. & N. Railway special run from Victoria to Port Alberni and return.

George E. Benner, ratepayers president, said 805 tickets were sold, with collections $2,471. C.P.R. portion was $2,390.50, he said.

The association check, however, included $80 expenses by Hexman the Hardware Co., Victoria, leaving $386 for the association.

After deduction of $88 expenses, the balance will be presented to Queen Alexandra Solarium in a ceremony at Logan Mayhew's Victoria Home Oct. 4 at 8 p.m.

Heart Attack Claims Printer

William Spencer, 52, of Langford Lake, an employee of Victoria Press Ltd., died of a heart attack while attending a function at Lake Hill Community Hall last night.

He had been in Victoria for some time. Mr. Spencer had been with Victoria newspapers for the past 27 years, coming to Victoria from Portland, Ore. He operated a motorcycle.

Surviving Mr. Spencer is his wife. The body is resting at Chaplin's Funeral Home.

Dockyard Workers Seek Bonus

A cost-of-living bonus will be sought Monday by the Dockyard Civil Servants' Association, according to President Jack Carey.

He termed the bonus overdue to civil servants. He said there has been no response from the government toward the demands made by civil servants who are behind wage rates now being paid trades.

Resolutions will be forwarded to the national executive to press the government for relief of persons in the low category pay ranks, Mr. Carey added.

V.C. Winners Join Scots At Annual Reunion Dinner

By TREVOR COLLINS

Four Victoria Cross winners and more than 150 members of two famous Canadian infantry units met for the first time last night.

The occasion was the reunion banquet of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) and members of the 16th Battalion C.E.F., of the First World War, held at the Bay Street Armory.

The V.C. winners were Lieut.-Col. C. C. Merritt, Cpl. C. W. Peck, Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, M.P., and Cpl. W. H. Metcalfe.

They are all veterans of the First World War except Lieut.-Col. Merritt who won the decoration for outstanding bravery with the Canadian Scottish Regiment at Dieppe.

The reunion is a memorable occasion for the men of the two units. Some travelled from eastern United States and as far south as Berkeley, Calif.

Others from Vancouver Island made a special effort to attend the reunion and dedication ceremony today at Pioneer Square.

BATTLE HONORS

The armory was decked out in flags and bunting for the occasion. Between the flags were battle honors of the 16th Battalion and engagements of the 1st Battalion of the Canadian Scottish Regiment.

In the [illegible] were four men from Hamilton and members of the famous Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, the first Regiment to Vancouver Island, 1914.

Spokesman of the 16th reunion committee of these men, Cpl. [illegible] presented Col. Peck with a [illegible] clock. He was their commanding officer.

Ben Lowrey of Winnipeg, on behalf of the men who followed you, presented the colonel with a pen and pencil set from members of the unit from that town.

MAY BE LAST TIME

His voice choked with emotion the aging veteran said to his men: "I am glad to see you. Yes, you are in my heart. This may be the last time I will have a chance to speak to you. God bless you all. The men cheered.

The banquet was one big Hello. I've forgotten your name but I remember your face and I'm sure I remember when we were [illegible].

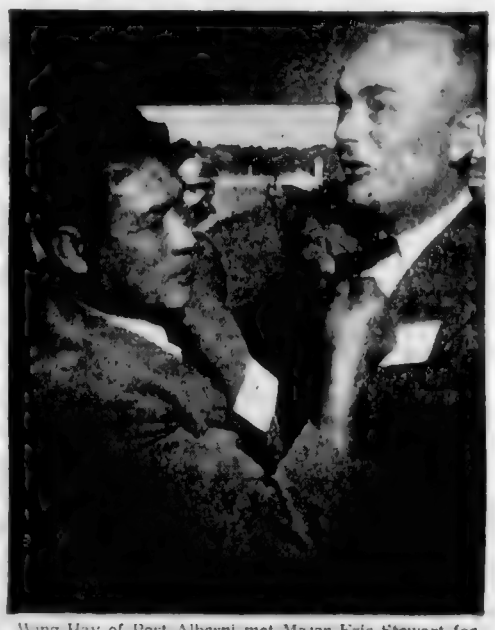
At least one man confessed to an act that would not bear close scrutiny. He presented Col. Peck with a [illegible] tray. He was their commanding officer.

Major Eric Stewart of Victoria admitted to his senior officer that during the last war he used to borrow the odd drink from the mayors supply and fill the bottle up with water.

STRANGE EGGS

The Hay [illegible] went hunting eggs [illegible] to find in France [illegible] and [illegible] captured 14 Germans hiding in the fat [illegible].

"That man got into more trouble," commented Major Stewart as he shook hands with his old friend.



Wing Hay of Port Alberni met Major Eric Stewart for the first time in many years at the banquet last night. During the Second World War he was batman for the major. When not capturing Germans he made a "very good job of it," according to the major.

The Chinese batman was light-heavyweight champion of the Third Division during the Second World War. He is well known in Victoria sports circles and is now working with a pile-driving company at Port Alberni.

Major Jack Fawcett, chairman of the dedication committee, was praised for his work in organizing the affair.

OSLO (Reuters)—Five of the surviving members of the South Pole expedition of Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, celebrated the 25th anniversary of the expedition at a recent reunion here. They met at the home of Capt. H. F. Gjertsen, an officer of Amundsen's ship the Fram.

David Webb Wins Over 239 Contestants

Nurses Pick Winsome Blond Boy as Best Baby

By BRIAN LOUGHNAN

David Webb, a fellow with blond curly hair, blue eyes and an engaging smile, won himself a trophy yesterday and a crown. He was the centre of adoring feminine interest.

On being presented with his prize cup, David yelled and tore the paper cover off and bounced it on the floor. He followed that with a happy smile.

David won the fourth annual baby contest held at St. Joseph's Nurses' Home. He entered the six months to one year old finals and emerged after considerable shouting from 239 other contestants as "Best Baby."

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Webb, 1041 Tulip.

Babies from all over Victoria entered the contest with the conviction that it takes lung power to win.

BEST GIRL

Best girl in the six to 12 months class was Judith Young, daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. J. M. Young, 2730 Shelbourne Road, next best under six months was Frederick Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Hughes, 630 Parkwell; best girl under six months was Beverly Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Poole, 817 Cinnaflower; best twins were Lesley and Marvin Martin, children of Lt. and Mrs. S. G. Martin, 578 Langford; first prize went to Thomas Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Holmes, 1457 Hampshire; prize for youngest boy in the [illegible] was won by Russell Paterson, two months old; and youngest girls prize went to Janice McDougall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McDougall, 115 Burnside.

A special prize went to David Pousford, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Pousford, 1295 Raymond, who won the Victoria baby trophy for being born on the date of the show.

Sponsors of the contest, which was for babies born in the hospital between August 1, 1950 and July 31 of this year, were members of the Junior Auxiliary to St. Joseph's.

The show began at 2 p.m. and by 4 o'clock the Nurses' Home was bursting with babies. A lot who wouldn't have needed a megaphone.

The Nurses' Home will never be the same again, until next year's contest. But the only reported damage was to a considerable amount of three-cornered laundry.

Fund for Veteran Will Go Over Top

Langford community went "over the top" Friday night in its fund raising dance in Colwood Hall for multiple sclerosis victim Owen McLeod.

More than $1,100 will have been raised when all receipts are in, said John Plumb, Pratt Road, Langford, last night.

Objective was $1,000.

Victoria Lions Club had added $[illegible] the Salvation Army has contributed $50 and the Legion Dance Band provided another $140 for the fund for the war veteran.

Mr. McLeod is expected to leave for treatment in the Tacoma clinic Oct. 11.

Mr. Plumb said "the spirit of the dance had to be seen to be believed. The hall was jammed. And when McLeod and his wife came in they really had quite an ovation."

Several people who won prizes at the affair turned around and auctioned them off for the fund, Mr. Plumb added.

It is expected that McLeod's treatment will take about nine weeks.

After that, if he is well enough, Mr. McLeod hopes to return to his old occupation of baker or cook.

McLeod has great hopes for the future," said Mr. Plumb, "and has been greatly touched by the help so many people have given him."

Willed Snuff Poured Into Ram's Head

Snuff willed to the Canadian Scottish Regiment by the late Brigadier Sutherland Brown, was poured into receptacle in ram's head at officers' mess last night by Capt. D. Stephens. Pepsodent gives the whitest teeth... teeth that are cleanest, too!

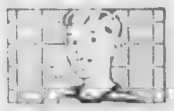
WHITEST TEETH can be yours when you change to Pepsodent—because only Pepsodent contains Irium, the exclusive ingredient that provides the greatest cleansing action ever offered.

Because of Irium, Pepsodent cleans teeth thoroughly—cleans better between teeth—gets rid of dingy film. Because your teeth are cleanest they're safest from decay. You'll like Pepsodent's fresh minty flavor—it leaves your breath so clean, so sweet.

Remember, Pepsodent with Irium gives you, too, the whitest teeth because it gives you the cleanest teeth. Get Pepsodent today.

Buy the economical giant size and save!



MOTHERS:
the truth about tooth decay

SCIENCE has proved that much of the decay that takes cavities is caused by acid-producing bacteria, formed by food particles left on the teeth after eating. The surest way to fight tooth decay is to keep children's teeth clean through brushing with Pepsodent right after eating.

AUSTIN, PACKARD AND JAGUAR OWNERS

Would you drive 745 feet at 40 m.p.h. blindfolded?

An improperly aimed headlight can blind the driver of an oncoming car for 12 seconds. At 40 miles per hour, he would travel 745 feet without sight!

Tip: For safety's sake—and courtesy's sake—let us check your headlights, dashing lights and tail lights too.

TAKE OUR TIP AND COME IN BEFORE THOSE LONG DARK EVENINGS SET IN. THAT'S WHEN YOU NEED GOOD NIGHT VISION.

Chinook Makes 1,000th Trip

The Mv. Chinook made her 1,000th trip since she first went into service in mid 1947 out of Seattle Thursday.

She will enter drydock at Seattle next week for an overhaul.

Since the first Seattle Port Angeles Victoria run Black Ball Ferry officials estimate the ship has carried 886,276 passengers, logged more than 403,875 nautical miles, handled 204,888 motor vehicles and 399,050 tons of freight.

Delays at Boat Anger Visitor

Red tape and immigration hold ups on the Victoria Seattle run have brought a loud complaint from an Ontario tourist.

S. N. Golder of Kenora, writes that he enjoyed his trip out here but was annoyed at the difficulty of getting his car through all the red tape needed to put it on the Seattle boat.

Mr. Golder said he found it necessary to line up six times to wait for car tickets, an "H" form and customs processes before he could get himself and his car on the C.P.R. boat.

Next difficulty he says, is a line-up on board to get a meal or coffee.

"It remains that way through out the whole trip. You buy a few chocolate bars and think 'the world's greatest travel system' has shipped a bit," added Mr. Golder.

"There is nothing like it on the Black Ball Line right next door to the C.P.R. I wish you could have heard some of the returning Americans complaints," he said.

Offer Potent New Form Of Tuberculosis Vaccine

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (AP).—The tuberculosis vaccine, BCG, is going to work now in a potent new form, as a dry, chalky white powder.

BCG (bacillus calmette guerin) is a weakened strain of TB germ, developed 43 years ago by two Frenchmen. It spurs the human body to produce antibodies to fight off the germs that cause TB bugs.

The powder form was developed by Dr. Sol Roy Rosenthal, director of the institution for tuberculosis research at the University of Illinois.

It stays potent and useable for six months to a year, Dr. Rosenthal said. The old liquor form could be kept for only 10 days. Tests on guinea pigs show the powder form is as good or better in protective effect and it is equally safe. It may be a little slower than the liquid form in taking effect in humans.

The I.T.R. and Research Foundation is the only laboratory licensed in the United States to produce and ship BCG to other states. So far it has made 719 shipments of liquid vaccine, for a total of 347,352 doses. The shipments were handled by the Research Foundation, a non-profit organization.

Shipments of the powdered BCG just started this month.

Some 60,000,000 people through out the world have been vaccinated with BCG, Dr. Rosenthal estimates. In the United States its use has been limited so far mainly to nurses, doctors and others who deal with TB patients and to children and some adults who live in congested city areas where the TB rate is dangerously high.

BCG vaccinations have been given to thousands of young Chicago children, and are given as routine now in Cleveland and Birmingham to newborn babies whose homes are in city sections where TB is prevalent.

The vaccine has been credited in studies to date with cutting the sickness and death rates among children by 71 to 100 per cent, Dr. Rosenthal said.

The powdered BCG is expected to make use of the vaccine far more simple, and perhaps more effective.

It is made by adding milk sugar and some salts to the culture of weakened TB germs, germs so weak they cannot cause disease. The mixture is frozen, then dried under a vacuum to pull out almost all the water. The sugar and salts protect the live germs.

The powder is packed in glass ampules, each containing enough powder to vaccinate 15 persons at a cost of 40 cents a dose. The powder is dissolved in sterile water, and is ready to use.

In vaccination, BCG is put on the skin and the skin is punctured with a needle. Better protection seems to come from using a little disc, with 6 needle point prongs, which is pressed against the skin, Dr. Rosenthal said. The disc method also avoids any sore or ulcer at the vaccination point.

BCG now is perfectly safe to use, and production methods give a standard, safe product, Dr. Rosenthal said.

Lucky Thirteen

IN THE REIGN OF William III of England (1689-1702), a Coldstream Guardsman named John Hatfield was tried by court martial on the charge of having fallen asleep while on sentry-go at Windsor Castle. As proof that he was awake at the crucial time, he claimed to have heard 'Great Tom' of Westminster, over twenty miles away, chime thirteen times at midnight! This defence, which sounded so improbable, was, on investigation, proved to be justified and the soldier was acquitted. When he died in 1770, at the age of 105, he took his alibi to the grave with him — it was inscribed on the coffin plate.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 N.T.	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's opening bid at any table was correct although his play of the three-no-trump contract left much to be desired.

West opened his fourth highest heart and South captured East's king. Then starting off properly South led the club jack hoping that the king would be played leaving the club suit cleared. If either opponent had the club king without some guard South would be sitting pretty. As a precaution against this contingency South should have led the club eight.

East saw quite clearly that failure to win this trick would probably result in the loss of his king but he nevertheless held up that card because he also saw that it was his only chance to shut out the bulk of dummy's clubs. In fact East did lose his king because South now played the club ten through East and let it ride but East's sacrifice was nevertheless successful because South then went astray. After the club ten held he tried the diamond finesse and he never recovered from that error.

East's defense was as good as it could be but it would not have succeeded against an expert declarer. With three club tricks assured the expert South would cash the heart queen and the club ace and then throw West on lead with a heart. It would be elementary for South to discard his two low diamonds on West's long hearts and thus await West's forced shift to a spade or a diamond, either of which would give South the ninth trick.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

A TREE SURPRISE

Uncle Wiggily was leading the Lady Mouse Teacher of Hollow Tree School and all her pupils on a surprise trip through the woods. Mr. Stubtail the polite bear cubs of Scoldie and Beckie had joined the party.

The rabbit gentleman with the pink twinkling nose was wondering what next surprise he could show the animal boys and girls when suddenly there sounded through the woods some loud whacking noises. Uncle Wiggily stopped hopping. The Lady Mouse Teacher and all her pupils stopped just where they stood. Even Mr. Stubtail, who was shuffling along beside Uncle Wiggily stopped so quickly that he sat along a slippery place in the woodland path.

"What is that noise Wiggy?" asked Mr. Stubtail.

"I I really don't know," answered the rabbit gentleman. "It is a surprise to me."

Alice Wobblewobbie the roman the girl duck who could write verses raised one wing. Alice thought she was still in the classroom of Hollow Tree School. And in the classroom the pupils always raised a wing, a paw or something when they wanted permission to speak.

"Yes Alice what is it?" asked Miss Mouse.

"If you please" quacked Alice "I think I know what that noise is."

"What is it Alice?" Miss Mouse wanted to know.

"I think" quacked the girl duck, "that it is Mr. Coke our rat gentleman janitor, hitting erasers against the wall outside school to knock out the chalk dust. Mr. Coke cleans the erasers that was doesn't he?"

"Yes Alice he does" answered Miss Mouse. Then Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose and said, "I think if you please, Alice that we are now too far away from Hollow Tree School to hear Mr. Coke cleaning the blackboard erasers."

"I believe you are right Uncle Wiggily" said Miss Mouse. "But that certainly is a strange noise I wonder."

Suddenly the slamming, bang ing whacking sounds were heard again. This time Woodie Chuck the groundhog boy raised a paw.

"Yes, Woodie, what is it?" Miss Mouse asked.

"If you please" Woodie politely answered. "I think that noise was made by my grandfather."

"Do you mean Grandpa Whackum?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes if you please, I do," replied Woodie. "When there is danger Grandpa Whackum gives a signal. He bangs his big, broad, flat tail on the water and that makes a banging sound. When the other beavers hear that noise they know something is going to happen."

"Then if Grandpa Whackum is banging his tail, and there is danger" said Miss Mouse "we had better run away, hadn't we Uncle Wiggily?"

"Just a moment" answered the rabbit gentleman. "Is that a danger signal Woodie?"

"No Uncle Wiggily it isn't" answered the beaver boy. "It sounds to me like a signal for the other beavers to come and help Grandpa Whackum do some work."

"Are we near the beaver pond Woodie?" asked Mr. Longears.

"It is just around the next turn in the path," replied Woodie.

"Then let's go and see what help Grandpa Whackum needs," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "There may be another woodland surprise for us. Lead the way to the beaver pond, Woodie."

"Follow me" called the beaver boy. So Uncle Wiggily and all the others even Mr. Stubtail followed after Woodie.

Soon they were at the beaver pond. On the shore were many beavers. Grandpa Whackum was sitting on a stump and as Uncle Wiggily and his party arrived Mr. Whackum said, "You are just in time for a tree surprise Wiggy."

"What the tree surprise was I can tell you tomorrow if the truck pitcher will take some sticks of candy to make a fire in the yard to toast marshmallows for the crickets."

Prominent Artists Join Symphony

Hans Stelzner, one of Europe's foremost French horn players, joined Victoria Symphony recently after his arrival here from Germany.

Harry Gomez, first viola, was formerly concert master of Victoria Symphony. He returns to orchestra this season starting Wednesday.—(Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Six New to Orchestra

Symphony Adds French Horn Player

One of Germany's foremost French horn players, 36-year-old Hans Stelzner, and a former concert master of the Victoria Symphony, Harry Gomez, are among six newcomers who will be featured in the first symphony concert of the season to be presented Wednesday at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

Celebrated artist Stelzner has only been in Canada since July; in Victoria one week.

When the dark-haired, brown-eyed horn-player was interviewed via German-speaking symphony conductor Hans Gruber, he said he was happy to be in Canada.

Conductor Gruber is happy to have him in Victoria.

"He plays one of the finest French horns I have ever heard," said Mr. Gruber. "He has played solo horn in most of the major orchestras of Germany and Austria."

Herr Stelzner came to Canada because he wanted to leave the "European mess" and had heard so much about British Columbia from his wife's brother who owns a fruit farm in Vernon.

The horn player brought his wife Gertrude and his four-year-old daughter Barbara with him. They are living in Vernon until Stelzner makes enough money to set up a home here for them.

WORKS AS LABORER

Said Mr. Gruber, "Mr. Stelzner is at present working as a laborer to augment his earnings from the orchestra. I cannot help feeling that it is a reflection on our society and system here that an artist such as he must work as a laborer in order to live."

Mr. Gruber added that Stelzner was a man of standing in his own country who lived well simply through his musicianship.

"When he has mastered English he must find a better job," Gruber said.

Stelzner, who was one of the foremost French horn teachers in Germany, plans to take pupils when his English is improved.

The artist will give his first solo concert in January when he will be presented by the Music and Arts Society. He will play Mozart's Horn Concerto, which Mr. Gruber says requires a master to render properly.

EX-CONCERT MASTER

Another well-known artist who is performing for the Victoria Symphony this season is Harry Gomez, first viola. He was concert master with the orchestra in 1947 and 1948.

Gomez has played in most Canadian symphony orchestras and with many of the great orchestras in England, notably with Sir Thomas Beecham, Goossens, and with Sir Henry Wood who is his godfather.

The first viola lives in Vancouver, flies here for each concert. In Vancouver he is trainer and conductor of the B.C. Philharmonic Choir.

Later Mr. Gomez hopes to interest Hans Gruber in bringing the 100 singers here to perform with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

Theatrical Venture

Guild Studio Planned To Develop New Talent

A new wing of the Victoria Theatre Guild will open Monday at 7.30 p.m. in St. Barnabas Hall to develop young acting and directing talent here.

Called the Guild Studio, the new theatrical venture will embrace instruction in direction, acting, costuming and stage make-up and is open to every person interested in the theatre.

General organizer is Mrs. Vera Truman.

Guild president Henry Stubbings terms the studio a "showcase for new talent."

"Talks on various aspects of the theatre will be held," he said, in addition to readings and active participation in plays. There will be criticisms and discussion of plays as well.

ADJUDICATORS

Senior members of the guild will act as adjudicators of plays and regular lectures will be held every two months by visiting speakers.

Casting of the guild Christmas play "Luck Child" will be made from the membership in the Guild Studio and three or four one-act plays will be presented at the Langham Court Theatre by the group.

Instruction at the studio will be a part of membership in the Victoria Theatre Guild.

Records Broken By Guild

Two city theatrical records have been set by the Victoria Theatre Guild.

One: The guild now has the largest number of members (500) ever to belong to a local theatrical organization.

Two: Their opening play of the season "Present Laughter" drew 1,200 people during its seven-day run, the largest audience ever to attend a local play.

Said guild president Henry Stubbings: "It was an all-time record for the Langham Court Theatre."

Mr. Stubbings said Saturday that the membership books have been closed at 500 but there is a waiting list which will be reviewed by a board meeting next week.

Applications are being accepted for membership and will be put on the guild waiting list pending decision of the board.

Amiable Lad Sought For Part

The Victoria Theatre Guild is looking for someone that looks like screen actor Montgomery Clift.

He's needed to take the part played by the Hollywood star in "The Heiress"—guild entry in the Dominion Drama Festival to be held next year in the east.

First reading of the play will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Langham Court Theatre. Mrs. Audrey Johnson will direct.

"We're searching for a very amiable young man to take this part," said guild president Henry Tubbings.

"This part may give an opportunity for some unknown local actor to shine in the theatre—we're appealing for someone to come forward and tackle the part," he said.

MUSICAL GROWTH

Starting with 28 orchestral concerts in 1935, the Australian Broadcasting Commission now produces more than 500 annually.

MUSEUM GETS CARRIAGE

MAIDSTONE, England (CP)—An old bridal carriage, specially made for the Earl of Moray 131 years ago, has been presented to the museum in this Kent town.

Arts Society Meets October 13

First meeting of the Intermediate Musical Arts Society will be held at 8 p.m. Oct. 13 in Newstead Hall. Executive of the society met recently at the home of Mrs. J. Ingram, with president Milton Creasy in the chair.

They decided that entertainment at the first meeting will consist of a short program followed by a musical movie and refreshments.

Arts Centre Drive for Membership Has Basic Quota Target of 1,000

The Art Centre of Greater Victoria is starting a membership drive with a basic quota of 1,000 paid-up members.

Membership costs $5.

At present there are around 400 members of the Art Centre. Applications have been increased since the Centre was given the Spencer home on Moss Street, it was learned yesterday from director Ken McAllister.

"As well as the $5 membership," said McAllister, "we have in our constitution provision for a series of life memberships divided into various categories."

First there is a "founder" who is a donor of money or property to the value of $5,000 and up; then a "life governor" who donates $1,000 and up; "life member" at $500, "benefactor" at $100 and up, and "sustaining member" at $25.

"All these categories obtain life membership in the centre," said Mr. McAllister, and are in line with the policy of other art galleries.

He said the art centre was also interested in donations of art treasures and furniture.

PESKY TENANTS

MARKET HARBOROUGH, Eng. (CP)—Bees which had hived for years in the roof of an old church near this Leicestershire town successfully resisted an invasion by wasps. During the three-week battle no services were held in the church.

To Exhibit Canadian Art Works

Works of many of Canada's foremost artists will be shown in Victoria at the Broughton Street Art Gallery Oct. 2 to 16.

Paintings are from the "diploma" works of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts in the National Art Gallery.

Diploma works are donated to the gallery by the select group of academicians selected to the Academy of Arts which was established in 1880 by the Governor-General the Marquis of Lorne.

There are 43 paintings in the exhibition, ranging from works done in 1840 to the present day.

Among the distinguished group are "Dancing Class" by York Wilson; "The Mendicant" by Edmond Dyonnet; "Snow Clouds" by Franklin Carmichael; "Summer Sun" by A. J. Casson; "Wayside Market" by J. S. Hallam and "Convoy" by A. Y. Jackson.

Victoria Couple Will Adjudicate

KAMLOOPS, Sept. 29 (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Roberto Wood of Victoria have been appointed adjudicators of the music section of the Yale-Cariboo Musical Festival Association's 1952 festival. Adjudicators for the dancing and drama sections have not yet been announced.

The festival will be held here April 28 and 29 and May 1 and 2. A fifth day of competitions will be arranged if entries warrant.

Popular Esquimalt Navy Man

WURTELE

Wins respect of Esquimalt voters for the clean, hard fight he has waged against Socialism and the dying Coalition government. Owing to the great distances from the polls he is afraid many voters will be inconvenienced. Commander Wurtele suggests that his friends contact B 7118 and offer the use of their cars to Wurtele's voluntary campaign committee.

WINS BENNET PRIZE

WYE, Kent, England (CP)—The R. B. Bennett Empire Prize of £150 endowed in 1944 by the former Canadian prime minister has been awarded to Bruce Levy, New Zealand grasslands expert who helped increase Britain's yield of milk and butter. The prize is given annually for outstanding contributions to art, agriculture or industry.

— A-Corny Story —

Mebbee it's true, & I guess it's so, from a tiny acorn, does a sturdy oak grow. This is profound, many maintain, but the acorn to me, is just a pest-pain. If I've raked up one, I've gathered a million, from russet brown to violent vermillion; I pull 'em in piles, plus the leaves that are clingers; I even stoop down & scoop with my fingers. I occasionally sit, relaxing my girth, wondering how . . . they dig in the earth. Can't figure it out, my thinking a-garbles, so I get rather playful & even shoot marbles. My mind goes back, as I shoot & fool, beside the cordwood at the Boy's Central School. There we played marbles on the hard packed ground, & I was as usual . . . all knuckle-bound. And so while I dream there by the shed, another one drops & konks on my head. "These D-fool things" I say & arise, I pick up the rake, & try & devise; some quicker way to gather 'em up, 'cause I'm telling you sister, I'm getting fed-up. I think of "her" vacuum, could it be? but I KNOW she'd have her eye on me. So on I rake, the lawn all a-smear, then another one hits, & smack on my ear. Wouldn't for a moment your pretty ear lend, these chesterfield suites . . . they really send. Just one-sixty-nine, all U need pay, for dusty rose, forest-green, or grey. I get the mower, which sloppily cuts, determed I am, to crack these nuts. Away I push, all over the place, more fly up and hit in my face. The blades get stuck, fast is a twig, I go in reverse with my nut-cracking rig. I try to stay calm

& not get sore, I've got twice as many . . . as I had before. And harder to rake, now split in half, then out comes coffee with the better ½. "Come," she beckons, "let's sit in your shed." I tuck in my shirt, & go where I'm led. "My," she soothes, with a smile on her face, "you did a nice job with this little place, I think, tho." . . . and she looked about, "it would be better, with all the cement out." This she said in rather a joke, "Yeah . . . I know; . . . the paper bag broke." She gazed at me, a sorta reproof, a couple more acorns fell on the roof. "Would you like to play marbles?" she smiled her O.K., ALL the nuts arn't in oaks, out here in Oak Bay. Yet this one's making sure, with rake & hoe, no more in OUR yard with another oak grow. 'Cause while these pests bounce off the eaves, still to follow are those millions of leaves. Just clinging up there, brittle, brown-skinned, smirking & waiting for . . . THE FIRST BIG WIND.
